PARTIAL DISCLOSURE OF HOW BRITAIN WILL DOUBLE AIR ARM

WORLD SILVER TALK MAY RESULT

WHITE HOUSE DENIAL OF RUMOURS

AMERICAN LEGISLATION ONLY

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894.
Received May 19 3.06 p.m.)

WASHINGTON, YESTERDAY.

AUTHORITATIVE CIRCLES REGARD THE PRESS SPECULATION ON THE POSSIBILITY OF A WORLD SILVER CONFERENCE AS PREMATURE.

The White House recently replied in the negative to inquiries as to whether a conference was prospective. The Treasury decline to comment on the reports.

Senatorial sources are of the opinion that the pending legislative programme is primarily of a national character in view of the silver nationalisation proposal, but it is presumed that silver, as a commodity, may eventually be co-ordinated in its national and international aspect.

In the United States and other producing and consuming countries party to the London Silver Agreement, it is thought, however, that the enactment of a new law would precede any international programme indispensable for the successful maintenance of the ratio.

France, holders for six years until Britain broke the sequence last year, will now meet Germany in the Second Round.

Earlier results were:
C. Bouquas (France) beat Matejka (Austria) 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.
A. Merloni (France) beat Metaxa (Austria) 4-6, 6-6, 6-2, 6-2.—Router.

STRAIGHT SETS WIN.

Lucerne, Yesterday.
Switzerland to-day entered the Second Round of the Davis Cup contest when Fischer and Steiner beat P. Handari and Browne, their Indian rivals, by 6-3, 6-0, 6-1.

Earlier results were as follows:
Ellner (Switzerland) beat Slem (India) 1-0, 6-2, 6-3, 6-0.
Fischer (Switzerland) beat P. Handari (India) 6-1, 6-2, 7-5.—Router.

The reports, of Professor Rogers, who is surveying the silver position in China, are arriving regularly. The Treasury is studying them.

Experts foresee numerous technical re-adjustments in the world situation following the enactment of the Bill.

For example, if silver here was nationalised how could it prevent an exodus from the United States, with a view, later, to taking advantage of the progressive rise in price.

Secondly, what would be the effects of heavy American purchases on countries such as China, where the stable commodity price levels are dependent on the steadiness of silver? — United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

SILVER BUYING IN NEW YORK.

Wall Street Belief.

New York, Yesterday.
A further unexplained disappearance of monetary gold, amounting this week to U.S.$6,772,000 and in the past three weeks to over U.S.$22,000,000, is disclosed in the Federal Reserve statement published yesterday.

Wall Street believes that it reflects gold transfers by the Treasury to the stabilisation fund for employment in the control of foreign exchange if required.—Router.

Vice-Minister Of Finance Faces Grave Charge.

REFUSES TO RESIGN.

Tokyo, Yesterday.
A serious Cabinet crisis threatens in Japan following the action of the judicial authorities against the Vice-Minister of Finance, Mr. Hideo Kuroda, who is suspected of complicity in a big share deal scandal in June last year.

Mr. Kuroda refuses to resign. The Premier, Admiral Viscount M. Saito, may be compelled to dismiss him on the grounds that he is involved in a criminal case.

Rumours of the possible resignation of the Finance Minister, Mr. K. Takahashi, are now circulating. — Reuter.

MINISTER SUSPENDED.

The Japanese Government has suspended Mr. Kuroda from his post in the Finance Ministry.

He has been committed to temporary confinement after a brief examination.—Reuter.

OLIVER EDWARDS ACQUITTED

Man Who Had King Of Siam's Letters.

LACK OF EVIDENCE

London, Yesterday.
Oliver Edwards, a book-maker living in a lodging house in Deptford, who was charged at the Greenwich Police Court on May 17 with being in possession of the King of Siam's letters of credit, was acquitted today.

The Police stated that the King of Siam has declined to have anything to do with the matter, and as the police were not in a position to offer any further evidence, the Magistrate ordered the documents to be returned to the King.

Edwards, when arrested, had in his possession two circular letters of credit for £1,600, drawn on the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, and belonging to the King of Siam. He stated that he had found them in the Strand.—Reuter.

DETAILED WORK ACCOMPLISHED

AERODROME SITES HAVE BEEN SURVEYED

INTERESTING FRENCH REACTION

London, Yesterday.

Great Britain is prepared to double her air force and leap from fifth to first place as by pressing a button.

This is the meaning of Mr. Stanley Baldwin's statement in the House of Commons, yesterday, which has aroused intense interest and has brought a partial disclosure of how the leap is to be accomplished.

The consensus of British press opinion is that an immense amount of detailed work has been accomplished, that aerodrome sites have been surveyed, and that tentative plans have been made to increase the facilities to train pilots.

Ample facilities exist to turn out machines owing to the up-to-date condition of the aeroplane and motor-car factories.

Some correspondents state that even supplementary estimates have been drafted.

It is reported that the British plan to submit an air convention to the Disarmament Conference has been abandoned owing to the opposition of a section of the Cabinet.

IT IS A MATTER OF INTERESTING SPECULATION HOW FRANCE WILL REACT TO MR. BALDWIN'S STATEMENT, AS SHE HAS THE WORLD'S BIGGEST AIR FLEET, APPROXIMATELY 3,000 AIRCRAFT, AS COMPARED WITH BRITAIN'S 1,400.—REUTER.

SUCCESS OF U.S. "NEW DEAL"

Statistics In I.L.O. Communication.

INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY SEEN.

Geneva, Yesterday.
The success of President Roosevelt's experiment is statistically measured in a communication to the International Labour Office.

Employment rose by 22 per cent, pay rolls by 40 per cent, and production by 23 per cent.—Reuter.

FUTURE OF THE SAAR REGION.

Cryptic Statement By M. Barthou.

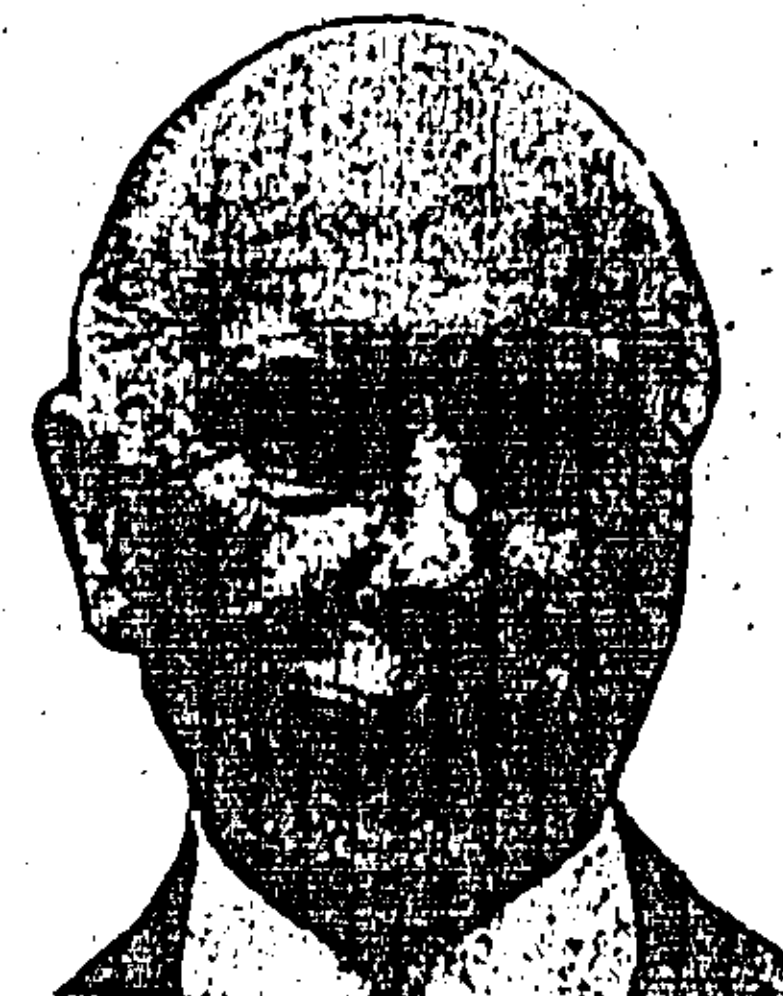

Geneva, Yesterday.
The French Foreign Minister, M. Barthou, in an interview to-day, stated that the agreement reached on the Saar question would be communicated to the League Council immediately.

M. Barthou declined to specify, however, whether Germany's acquiescence was obtained or whether the agreement related to the plebiscite date or to guarantees. — Reuter.

A WORLD RECORD GOES AT THE GAMES

Javelin Throw By Japanese.

PHILIPPINES WIN SOCCER FROM JAVA.

Clean Sweep For Japan In Swimming.

Manila, Yesterday.
Nagao, of Japan, won the Pentathlon by a comfortable margin with a total of 3,476 points, at the Far Eastern Games to-day, breaking the world's record for the javelin throw, setting a new mark of 62.475 metres.

In the soccer the Philippines recorded a surprise win by 3 goals to 2 over Java.

The Japanese and Chinese basketball and tennis matches were abandoned to-day owing to heavy rains.

The Japan-Philippines basketball match last night was moved indoors owing to the rain.

Japan made a clean sweep of all the swimming events to-day setting new Far Eastern records, but the Netherlands Indies caused a surprise by winning the finals of the fancy diving.

Three competitors broke the 1,500 metres swimming record, Akino returning the best time with 19.47.3.

The 100 metres back-stroke record was beaten by five swimmers, Kawatsi, the world's champion winning in 1.10.9.—Reuter.

Arne Borg, of Sweden, is the present holder of the 1,500 metres free-style swimming record with 19.72 over a 50 metres course at Bologna in Italy on February 9, 1927.

The world's record for the 100 metres back-stroke, 1.8.2, was made by George Kojac, of America, over a 50 metres course at Amsterdam on August 8, 1928.

CHINA'S CHANCE AT OLYMPIAD.

Basketball Final With Philippines.

Manila, Yesterday.
Japan created the biggest upset in the Far Eastern Olympic Games to-day by defeating the Philippines by 40 to 38 in their basketball match after leading throughout.

The only possible reason which can be put forward for this surprising victory was the over-confidence of the Filipinos.

As Japan is already definitely third in the contest, this victory makes China and the Philippines tie for the first place.

Passing Of Blonde In 1935

"More-or-Less Brown Hair Vogue."

THE IDEAL BRUNETTE

New York. BEAUTY experts who have been holding their international convention in New York have declared that to-day's ideal girls will have to change, because next year's Venus will:

Weigh 9st. 4lb. to 9st. 8lb. Have a bust measurement of 35in., waist measurement of 35 or 36in. and have "more or less" brown hair.

"Blonde and other glaring colours," say the hair experts, "are out."

This ideal brunette is to be 5ft. 8in. tall.

"It is," say the experts, "the consensus of opinion that film stars are not natural types."

HATS MAY LOOK THE SAME

But Poise On The Head Gives New Effect.

ALREADY, in speaking of the new millinery, people have been heard to say, "Why, I had a hat like that in 1931." Not until they come to put on the new hats do they realise the subtle differences to the vintage of 1931. Certainly, the Breton sailor is with us again, but it is with a difference, not only in the shape and size of the brim, but in the way it is poised upon the head.

Then, too, hair fashions will be so altered as to change the whole aspect of the hat and face. All hair, to be smart, must be brushed back from the face and up from the neck. And, having brushed it up, the thing is to get it to stay up. That, of course, is in the hands of the hairdresser.

CHILDREN LOVE TO "DRESS-UP"

Odd Costumes And Hats Provide Amusement.

START A COSTUME BOX

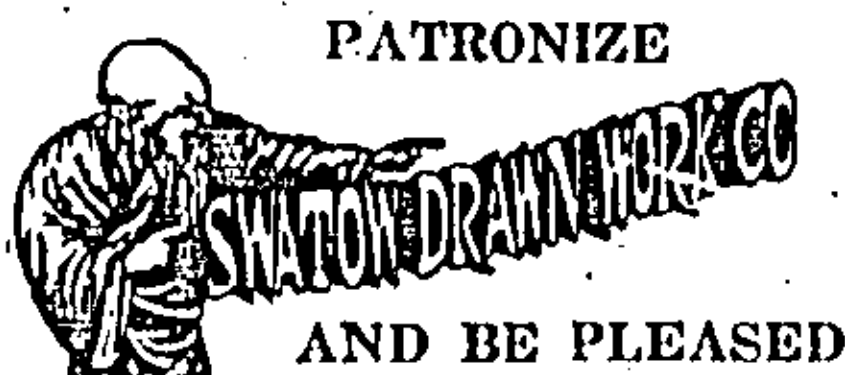

FEW things give children more pleasure than a box full of old garments from among which they may hunt out costumes for impromptu dressing-up, for charades, or for any kind of acting.

If there is a spare corner available somewhere in the house it is well worth while to set apart an old trunk as a costume box and to keep it supplied with an assortment of cast-off clothing. Then a college cap and gown—all such things are the more amusement they will provide.

The Costume Box.

During room cleaning, when drawers and wardrobes are turned out, the costume box may be replenished with odd things that are hardly suitable for giving away. Odd hats, veils and scarves; school caps and blazers; sports clothes; bridesmaids' caps; an old sunshade or an umbrella that is past repair; a college cap and gown; all such things are excellent material for dressing-up purposes.

The use of a special box for this miscellaneous collection has three great advantages. Valuable space in drawers and cupboards is saved; the things are always at hand when required, so that no time need be wasted in looking them out; and there is much less fear of good clothing being hastily borrowed and perhaps damaged in the excitement of dressing-up.

Masculine Touch In New Designs.

ADVANCE spring fashions in London show that the mode for women will be slightly more masculine. Dresses will be shorter, and skirts tight, but split on one side from about five inches above the knee. Hats will be mainly halos and sailors.

Many designs in short trousers are being shown for sports wear, but they have cunningly designed plants so that, until the wearer is in action, they have the appearance of short skirts. In travelling coats, special pockets with zip-fasteners have been arranged to carry tickets without in any way spoiling the cut of the garment.

BOWLS SENSATION AT THE VALLEY

I.R.C. WIN OVER K.B.G.C.

THE Craigengower Cricket Club's "B" team, who are making their debut in the senior division of the Lawn Bowls league, provided the sensation of yesterday's games by defeating their senior team, the Craigengower "A," who are the strongest contenders for championship honours this season.

The Kowloon Bowling Green, the champions, were fully extended to retain their 100 per cent record when they defeated the Kowloon Docks by a margin of only two shots, and the K.C.C. recorded their first victory when they beat the Police at Kowloon by one shot.

The Yacht Club recorded a comfortable win over the junior champions, the Craigengower C.C., but the Indian R.C. provided the surprise in the junior division by defeating the Kowloon Bowling Green. This is the second time the Bowling Green have been defeated this season.

The Police struck their old form when they repeated their win over the K.C.C. by 71 shots to 59, but the Electricians turned the tables on the Club de Recreio, defeating by 70 shots to 49.

OLYMPIC GAMES

The Final will be played off to-night, making this the most crucial game of the whole tournament.

The Philippines are favoured to win, but the Chinese, already known to be strong, have gained fresh hopes by the Filipino debacle last night.—Reuter.

GAMES CONGRESS OPENS.

Quite Uneventful Sitting.

JAPAN'S PROPOSAL TO BE DISCUSSED LATER.

Manila, Yesterday. The first meeting of the Far Eastern Athletic Association Congress, held this morning, was quite uneventful. Japan's proposal to admit Manchukuo, by a revision of the constitution, was received without comment and is now being held for later discussion.—Reuter.

The feeling of the public in Manila is that much depends on the result of this Congress meeting.

Attendance to the Congress is limited to only three delegates from each country represented in the Tenth Far Eastern Olympics. Officers of the F.E.A.A., however, have a right to take part.

The Japanese delegates are stated to have told the Manila press that they intend to force the inclusion of Manchukuo at the next Far Eastern Olympics, to be held in Shanghai in 1938. Mr. Ikkaku Matsuzama and Mr. Kitano Abe, Japanese officials, have voiced the desire to have the matter settled before they leave Manila.

The Japanese officials are stated to have threatened withdrawal from the Association if Manchukuo is not invited to participate in the next Games. They have also revealed plans for holding another Oriental Games in 1938 if the Chinese refuse the inclusion of Manchukuo in the Olympics of that year.

Many cables have been received in Manila, from Japan, both by the Japanese officials, and by members of the Philippine Amateur Athletic Association, stating that there is tense feeling in Japan on account of the refusal of admission to Manchukuo.

Snowpine Liu, one of the Chinese delegates, expressed the hope that matters might amicably settle at the Congress.

He explained that China's objection to the inclusion of Manchukuo is based on the fact that the Japan-supported state is not recognised by China as an independent country, but as part of China.

JOCKEY CLUB LOSE STARTER.

Mr. S. A. Sleep On Home Leave.

MR. POTTS FILLS VACANCY.

The Hong Kong Jockey Club lost a valuable official yesterday when Mr. S. A. Sleep, the official starter, left on home leave by sea.

Mr. Alec Potts has filled the vacancy as starter, officiating in all nine events on yesterday's card.

Until the Third Extra Race Meeting, when Mr. Potts started two races in preparation for his taking over the post, Mr. Sleep had started every race since the starting gate was introduced at the Annual Meeting in 1931.

Mr. Sleep is expected to arrive back in the Colony in December.

BRILLIANT RIDING BY PAUL BOTELHO

MR. DEITZ HAS 4 WINS IN EIGHT STARTS

MR. MOSSOP'S BAD SPILL

TWO Colony track records were shattered yesterday when Mr. Fatshan's Able Amazon and Messrs. Cheung and Wo's High Finance revelled in their first experience of a fast and true track.

With Mr. Butler up, Able Amazon burned up the track in the Brisbane Handicap to shatter Bronze Era's 1 1/4 miles record by no less than ten seconds—and Bronze Era, Australian champion finished last! High Finance, brilliantly ridden by Mr. Paul Botelho, clipped 6.2/5 secs. off Racing Heart's 1 Mile and 171 Yards record.

In a day of exceedingly keen racing Mr. Norman Deitz carried off the jockey honours with four wins and two seconds in eight starts. He pushed Soldier of Britain to within two-fifths of a second of Apollo's 3-year-old six furlongs record. The pony is expected to win again to-morrow.

MR. H. S. V. MOSSOP SUSTAINED A NASTY FALL FROM ROSE LEAF IN THE NOVICES' RACE, BEING TAKEN TO THE WAR MEMORIAL HOSPITAL WITH A FRACTURED LEG. MR. J. BARROW ALSO CAME OFF IN THIS EVENT, BUT WAS FORTUNATELY UNHURT.

An unusually small crowd saw Mr. Deitz, leading jockey, commence the afternoon with a win on Messrs. Li and Li's Beta to pay a win dividend of $36.70. He drew the rails position, but did not get away to a good start.

The Redshank (Mr. Butler) and Racing Pride (Mr. Black) got away to a good start in the sprint over six furlongs, but both ponies were out of the race at the Rock where Bay View (Mr. Liang) the favourite secured the lead.

Mr. Paul Botelho brought Ribble through beautifully on the corner into the home straight which he entered first with Beta and Monoplane (Mr. Pan) in close attendance.

Beta just won on the post by a head from Ribble in the comparatively good time of 1.29.4. Monoplane secured third place ahead of Hot Sun (Mr. Chanson), the second favourite.

Racing Pride, which commenced well, ended the race very lame. Mr. Black being forced to dismount after passing the finishing post.

There was only sufficient in the cash sweep pool to allow for $25 being paid for the eight unplaced ponies.

Mr. Heard's Win.
Mr. Benny Proulx attempted a runaway win on Gold Bullion and managed to hold the lead until the last quarter of the 1 1/4 mile distance in the Stonecutters Handicap. He was then well and truly beaten. Quarto's Spinaway (Mr. Heard), the second favourite, coming through to win in the slow time of 2.33.1.

Gold Bullion's big lead at the start was greatly diminished in the back straight where Lemberg (Mr. Harriman) came on level terms with Spinaway. At the Rock Spinaway was sent into the lead at the corner into the home straight.

Mr. Deitz rode well to bring Wonderful Stag, third favourite, into second place ahead of Blatno (Mr. Ip), who was plipped on the post. Daylight Eve (Mr. P. Botelho) was fourth with Lemberg (Mr. Harriman); the favourite, fifth.

Record Shattered.
The expected record was provided in the Brisbane Spring Handicap when Mr. Fatshan's Able Amazon (Mr. Butler) burned up the track to clock 2.14.2 over 1 1/4 miles, clipping no less than ten seconds off Bronze Era's record.

Mr. Black set the pace on Atlas, but was displaced at the football stands by Mr. Harriman on Bronze Era. Saucy Face (Mr. Taylor) was third at this point with Able Amazon lying fifth.

At the Rock Bronze Era was displaced, the field bunching up with Mutiny Bay (Mr. Proulx) coming up strongly.

Mr. Butler then gave Able Amazon his head and won by five lengths from Mutiny Bay who had to struggle hard to stave off Just That (Mr. Soares). Bag Tor (Mr. Heard) was fourth.

The many supporters of Woodland Stag saw the former Dunbar crack finish third last in a field of nine starters. Bronze Era was last.

Soldier of Britain Wins.
Another record nearly went by the board in the May Handicap when Soldier of Britain (Mr.

51,000 TICKETS SOLD.

To date 51,000 tickets have been sold in the Hong Kong Jockey Club's mammoth $1.00 sweep on the Juling Stakes at the next race meeting on June 2.

Deitz came within two-fifths of a second of Apollo's three-year-old record over six furlongs.

Mr. Deitz took no chances and sent Soldier of Britain, red hot favourite, into the lead from the start and won by 2 1/2 lengths.

Sadko, second favourite, was not extended by Mr. Harriman until the home straight had been reached. He then came through well to beat King's Justice for second place after being well behind at the Rock. Cossack's Beauty was last in the field of four starters.

At this stage Mr. Deitz had two wins and a second in four starts.

Third Win For Mr. Deitz.
Mr. Deitz rode his third winner in five starts when he brought Soldier of China first past the post in the Lead Mine Handicap, thus fully atoning for his "also-ran" in the St. George's Plate.

Prima Donna, winner of the St. George's Plate and second favourite for yesterday's race, was sent out into the lead by Mr. Harriman, and Brechin (Mr. Proulx) kept him company until the Rock was reached. He then began to feel his heavy weight impost and was never in the hunt.

At this point Mr. Paul Botelho allowed King's Bounty a free rein and Bright Star (Mr. Liang) also shot to the front. Coming into the straight Prima Donna still retained the lead, but it was not long before the mare was passed by Bright Star, King's Bounty and Soldier of China in that order.

Soldier of China put in a terrific finish over the last 100 yards to win by three lengths from King's Bounty, who had been exceedingly well ridden by Mr. Botelho. Bright Star was fourth and Prima Donna fifth.

Favourite Triumphs.
King's Fancy (Mr. P. Botelho) was a hot favourite for the Customs Handicap, and he led from start to finish to beat High Speed (Mr. Pan) by 3 lengths over the six furlongs. Valorous was ridden into third place by Mr. Johnnie Heard, ahead of Wayward Stag (Mr. Ip) and Tili-cum (Mr. Proulx).

It was a good finish in which Wayward Stag's lack of stamina in a slow race cost him second place—he was second to King's Fancy coming into the straight. Mr. Pan rode a well-judged race on High Speed after a poor start behind King's Fancy, Tili-cum, and Wayward Stag.

Mr. Choy Wing Hay, who sustained injuries as the result of a bad fall on Tolshan during training ten days ago, took Partnership to the post in this race, but was badly left at the start.

Of the 491 successful supporters of Able Amazon in the first leg, 276 selected King's Fancy in the second leg, and a record low dividend of $14.40 was paid out. Had backers placed their money on the ordinary parimutuel they would have received $16.90.

FEAR STALKS IN RUSSIA

Danger Of Offending The Soviet State

Vast Powers Of The G.P.U.

IN a high post in a People's Commissariat in Moscow there is a cheerful man, bearing an honoured Russian name, whom we may call Mr. X. He served the Tsar before he served the Soviet. His father served the Tsar too, but his father was shot by the Bolsheviks," writes a special correspondent of the London Evening Standard.

When curious visitors comment on the apparent incongruity between Mr. X's present service and his father's death, his answer is: "Would you stop travelling by train because your father had been killed in a railway accident?"

Mr. X is an example of the continuity that is to be found in Russian administration. There are many other, and some weightier, examples. The most notable of them is the secret police, service called State Political Administration, or, title, G. P. U. There were lately reports that the G. P. U. was to be abolished. In the light of Russian history such reports arouse only an ironical smile.

Secret police forces have been a feature of Russia administrations since the days of Ivan the Terrible, whose Oprichnina had its own special police, clothed in black and riding black horses. The last in Tsarist times the Okhrana, was replaced after the Bolshevik Revolution by a Supreme Extraordinary Commission to Combat Counter-Revolution—known, from the initials of the Russian words for Extraordinary Commission, as Cheka.

During the Russian Civil War the Cheka so far surpassed earlier secret police forces as to become, in the words of the veteran revolutionary, Martoff, a "State within the State," and the ninth Congress of Soviets decided to "abolish" it. This decision was given effect by a decree of the All-Union Central Executive Committee of February, 1922, which simultaneously created the State Political Administration, or G.P.U. (later, when the Soviet Union was formed, Unified State Political Administration, or O.G.P.U.), to do the same work.

Certain administrative changes accompanied the Soviet change of name. For one thing, the G.P.U. was incorporated in the Soviet Constitution (a point worth remembering when there is talk of its supersession).

For another, it was "attached" to the Commissariat of the Interior (though in fact it has never been administered by that body), and all its local organisations were subordinated to the central organisation in Moscow. For a third, rules were laid down for its procedure in arrest, search and seizure, and the Commissariat for Justice was made responsible for seeing that these rules were followed.

At the same time its personnel was re-organised, and it was given special army detachments; according to the latest official figures they now number some 47,000, of whom 30,000 are employed as frontier guards. These G.P.U. troops wear distinctive uniform and are a fine-looking body of men, particularly the G.P.U. cavalry.

Fearful Of Neighbours.

On the administrative side the G.P.U. was organised and staffed in much the same manner as the Cheka. It also kept the Cheka's army of unofficial helpers. In estimating the number of these the foreigner is up against the Russian temperament. If he meets two Russians together in Moscow and then each of them, separately, the chances are that on the second meeting each will warn him that the other is a G.P.U. agent. All that can safely be said is that the number of G.P.U. agents is large enough to make Muscovites fearful of their neighbours.

That fear is justified by the extent of the G.P.U.'s powers. The G.P.U. is chiefly known abroad for its arrests of foreigners. Compared with the Soviet citizen, the foreigner is almost immune from its attentions. In a State which controls and produces everything from thought to face powder, almost anything may be "political and economic counter-revolution." Thus, if one Soviet citizen robs another, he is committing an ordinary crime, and will be arrested by the militia, or ordinary police, and tried by the People's, or ordinary, Courts.

If he robs a train carrying grain consigned to the State Grain Export Agency, he is robbing the State or committing "economic counter-revolution;" he may then be arrested and tried by the G.P.U., who are police and judge in one.

As with any organisation, in the case of the G.P.U. much depends on the method. Its methods are time-honoured. Like the Cheka before it, and the Okhrana before the Cheka, it makes its arrests by preference late at night or early in the morning, when vitality is at its lowest. Stories of physical torture may almost certainly be discounted. There are other tortures no less effective. One of them consists simply in playing on a prisoner's concern over the fate of his relatives. Another, even more simple but obviously less generally applicable, was used before a recent trial when the prisoner, a dipsomaniac, was deprived of alcohol for two days and then promised alcohol if he would sign a confession.

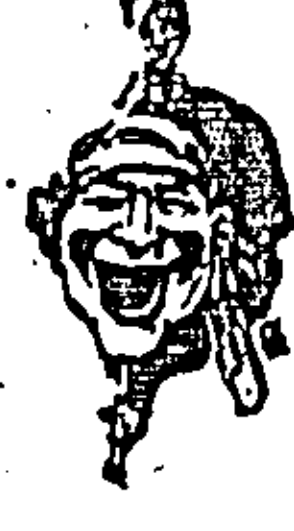

A third method, more refined, was practised on a Soviet engineer of my acquaintance. By dint of suggestion this man was persuaded that he had betrayed the proletarian republic he loved. As he went mad, the G.P.U. failed to get a confession.

G. P. U. Philosophy.

The case of this particular engineer is instructive. No one could possibly have doubted his sincere devotion to the Soviet Union. Nor did the G. P. U. doubt it. But the G.P.U. has a philosophy distinct from that of ordinary police systems. I had the first glimpse of it when I visited a Commissariat in Moscow just after the Ramzin trial of December, 1930. The Soviet scientists in that trial were accused of plots and crimes

IN FULL SWING AGAIN

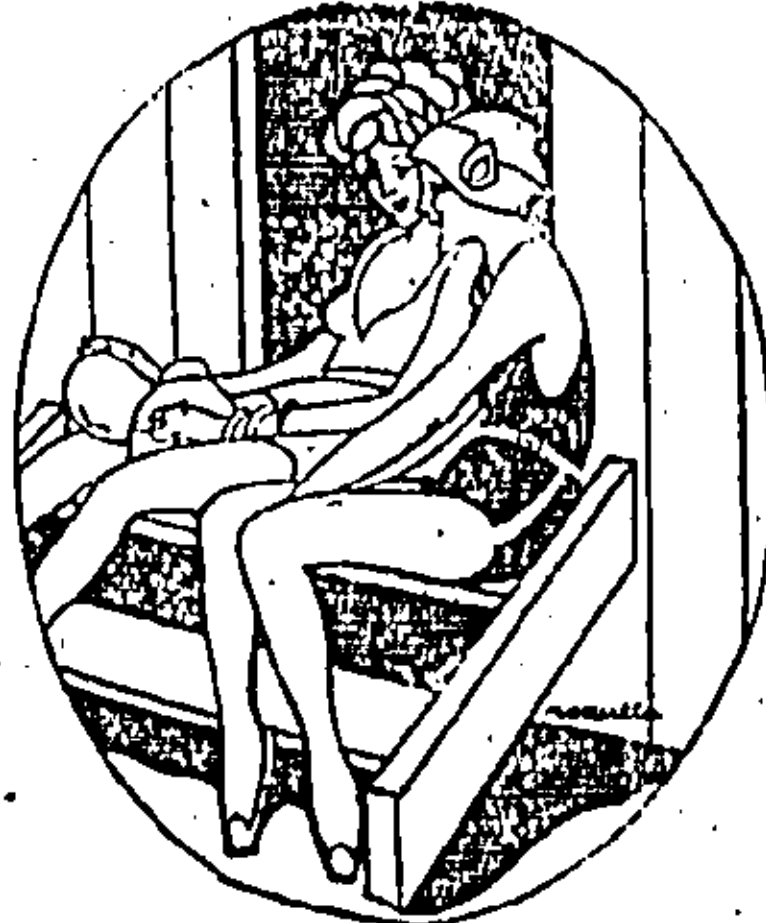

The tennis racket.

Safety First

"There is one thing the motor-ing beginner must grasp," writes an expert. He refers, of course, to the hand-brake.

A Better Lie

"I am picking up wonderfully at golf," writes a correspondent. My opponent always objects when I do this sort of thing.

Some Sprint

"Follow a winning jockey," advises a racing expert. Where are my running shorts?

Swoon

"What can a girl do when suddenly confronted by a mouse? I am asked. She generally has a faint idea.

Ask a Husband

"Wives demand change," states a feminist. And notes.

Making Wormholes.

A world shortage of antiques is reported. This in spite of the fact that many factories are working overtime to keep up with the demand.

Stickler for Work

The rubbish sorter who was at- tached down in the dumps.

Aunt Agatha's Latest

On being told that a friend and his wife had been at loggerheads all last week-end, she wanted to know if it was a nice place for a holiday.

That's Settled

"Many aviators on long-distance flights have lived on chocolate," says a writer. My nephew has now definitely decided to fly round the world.

An Enthusiast

The librarian who went fishing with a bookworm.

Devotion to Art.

"The secret of good cooking is to concentrate on the task in hand," states a writer. Some restaurants certainly put all they have into their Irish stew.

Cleaner

A shaft of limelight is thrown on the conductor of an orchestra at a new musical comedy. That's better than eggs.

Simple

"How can I avoid making my stories too heavy?" asks a literary aspirant. Type them on thinner paper.

Not Far Out

The Frenchman who got a black eye a racing and asked his butcher for a bifsteak.

Black Outlook

"Poor American cotton crop" reads a head-line. So, presumably the natives won't be pickaninny.

In Other Words

A London church is in need of funds for new outfits for its choir-boys. No surplice cash.

Sure To Be

A firm advertises a special bur- glar-proof lockless door. There must be a catch in it somewhere.

Of Course Not.

"The average nudist lives in terror of police-men," I read. But they can't pin anything on him.

Well Hit, Sir

"The public schools," I read, "teach our boys the value of a straight left." The old school sock?

Too Revealing

"How does the modern mother keep her son's twenty-first birth- day?" asks a grandmother. A dead secret.

Must Be

I read that there are several small craft on the Thames engaged in carrying goods for tobacco firms. Cigarette lighters?

So to Speak.

Two boys, whose shouts pre- vented a smash-and-grab raid, re- ceived a half-penny each as a re- ward. A penny for their thwarts.

Dizzy Heights.

"By 1984," predicts a writer, "we shall be leaping over the largest of the planets in specially- designed rocket planes." Jumping Jupiter!

Hamlet Afloat

To eat, or not to eat? That is the question:
Whether 'tis nobler on the brine to suffer

The pangs and purgings of rampageous Neptune

Or, taking arms against a sea
that bubbles,

My "Mother'silk" to end them. To eat, — to keep, —

For evermore to keep, and say we end

The retchings and the thousand stomachaches

The sea gives rise to. 'Tis a consumption

Devoutly to be wished. To eat;
— to keep; —

To keep! Perchance to sleep—aye, there's the rub!

For on that heaving bunk what dreams may come,

When we have shuffled off our shirt and pants,

Must give us pause. There's the effect

Of drugs, gastritis, loss of face and fright.

For who would bear the horrors of that time—

The cabin-mate's contempt, the gloater's jeer,

The steward's whistling, the vile smell of food,

And quips of castor oil and greasy
pork

That patients from robustious brutes must bear,

When they themselves might their quietus make

By not embarking? Who would tosses wear,

And sweat and squirm under mosquito nets,

But that disgust of where we first drew breath—

That undersalaried country of high rates

And income-tax returns—weakens the will

And makes us funk and fly the ills we have

To sample others that we wot not of?

Such flights make empire-builders of us all:

And booby hues of British constitutions

Are sickled over by green mal-de-mor,

And enterprising men of pith and moment,

Their tummies turned and faces
all awry,

Have lost the power of action:
"Ley Tan San."

SANITARY BOARD AGENDA

Disease Prevention
Proposals.

DR. LI SHU FAN'S MOTION

Proposals regarding measures to be taken with a view to the prevention of disease in the Colony will be put forward by Dr. Li Shu-fan at the meeting of the Sanitary Board, on Tuesday.

The agenda is as follows:—

1. Motion by the President relative to the fees charged for special food licences in Tai Hing, North Point and Shaokwan.

2. Dr. Li Shu Fan, pursuant to notice, will move:—

"(a) That it is the opinion of this Board that, in the interest of public health and with the view to the prevention of disease, it is desirable:—

(i) that restaurants, eating stalls, stalls for the sale of cooked food, premises for the sale of cooked meat and cooked meat hawkers, should be licensed by a sole Licensing Authority, but as regards restaurants, such licence should be in addition to any Liquors Licence prescribed by law.

(ii) that for the purpose of unified control and proper sanitary supervision, such sole Licensing Authority should be the Sanitary Board.

(iii) that the Sanitary Board should have power to make by-laws for the proper sanitary regulation of all eating and cooked food stalls, cooked meat premises and cooked meat hawkers, and in particular for the safeguarding from dust and insects of all such cooked food; for the cleanliness and safeguarding from dust and insects of all utensils used by the sellers of such food; and for the wrapping in a satisfactory manner so as to be free from contamination and to protect from dust and insects of all articles purchased before delivery to the customers, and

(b) That a copy of this motion be forwarded to the Government with the request that the necessary legislation be passed in order to give effect to this motion."

FEAR STALKS IN RUSSIA.

fantastic to English imagination.
I said so to the bland and cultured G.P.U. official with whom I was talking. "Quite so," he replied, "but (deprecatingly) these things are for the people."

G.P.U. philosophy was later even more frankly explained by a G.P.U. official as follows:—

"Suppose we were to arrest a man guilty of some crime and punish him. We should be able to prove his guilt to public satisfaction. Both his comrades and the public would feel that he had had his deserts—and they would not worry.

"But suppose we arrest and punish a man we know to be innocent. His comrades know that he is innocent. The public suspect that he is innocent. And both his comrades and the public are made to feel not only the power of the State, but that they must exert every effort on behalf of that State lest they too be taken."

The G.P.U., like everything else in Russia, has its funny side. It is reputed to make a substantial income by leasing out the experts it seizes and imprisons.

The humours, however, are rare,
for the G.P.U. exercises over Soviet life a surveillance greater than that of any of the Tsarist secret police forces.

The general effect produced is one of oppression. It is felt in the silences which interrupt the conversation of any of Moscow's remaining intellectuals when the foreigner touches on a subject which might indirectly disclose political sympathies. It is unconsciously expressed in the phrase by which foreign residents in Russia express their intention of taking a holiday abroad; they do not go to Germany, to Sweden, to London—they go "out."

'ASPRO'
THE WORLD'S GREATEST ANTIDOTE AGAINST FEVER

THE main thing with fever is quick action at inception to reduce the temperature and arrest development. "ASPRO" eliminates feverish conditions because of its anti-pyretic (fever reducing) properties. It quickly reduces the high temperature and allays developments. "ASPRO" is far ahead of quinine because after ingestion in the system, it is a powerful germicide or germ destroyer. It does not in any way harm the heart or stomach. For Dengue, Malaria, Ague or fever of any kind, simply take two tablets every two hours until the fever abates and the pain ceases, "ASPRO" reduces temperature within 15 minutes.

From China.

C.M.S., Mienhuchsen,
Szechuan, W. CHINA.

Dear Sirs, Feb. 16th, 1932.

You will be glad to know that I find "ASPRO" very useful here for MALARIA, COLDS and LOW FEVERS to which the Chinese are very subject.

Many of the Chinese are attacked by minor ailments and come to me frequently suffering from COUGHS, COLDS, INFLUENZA and BAD HEADACHES as the result of drenching rain and wet clothes. A timely dose of "ASPRO" saves them from attacks of fever and often when travelling in places where there is no medical aid, many people depend on us for help in sickness.

I cannot speak too well of "ASPRO" because of the very great relief it gives to suffering humanity in this part of the World. Almost every day someone in this large community needs help and I can always depend on "ASPRO" to give the relief they so much need.—Yours truly,

(MISS) M. ARMFIELD.

Gentlemen,
I think it is up to me to let you know how I have benefited by "ASPRO." Ever since 1910 I have been a martyr to MALARIA FEVER, having contracted same in Rhodesia,
German East Africa and the Straits Settlements.

'ASPRO' Only
Medicine Beneficial

Brisbane,

I think I would be neglectful in my duty as a citizen and one who is a returned man, if I did not tell you of the benefits that I have found in the use of "ASPRO" Tablets.

I served in the 5th Light Horse for a period of four years and four months, through the Sinai Desert, Palestine, and Syria campaigns, and when in the Jordan Valley I contracted malaria fever. Since I have returned I have had several attacks, and after trying all different remedies prescribed, have found that none was given me relief.

I have lately found that "ASPRO" tablets is the only medicine which has in any way been beneficial, and I can honestly recommend them to any pals who served in the A.I.F., and had the misfortune to add malaria to their disabilities.

This testimonial has not in any way been solicited, and being in business at present I do not wish my name published, but give the above voluntarily, in the earnest wish that others may benefit by "ASPRO."

Cancer Research.

THERE is no need to plead for the Duke of York's Fund for Cancer Research, administered by King's College, London. Everyone, even in countries that can agree about nothing else, is willing to co-operate in the search for some mitigation or cure of what has been called "the scourge of civilisation." No paragraphs have greater "news value" than the occasional statement that some savant appears to have made a step in advance, even if it be only in checking a cancerous growth in mice or some other of those unfortunate animals who are unconscious martyrs to science. We are sometimes encouraged by the reflection that some of the greatest discoveries have been made by chance, — though of course by investigators like the discoverer of the X ray who knew how to appreciate the phenomenon they saw. Sometimes we are discouraged by the lack of definitely ascertained facts. Is what we call "cancer" really one morbid condition of blood or cells, or several? Is it really on the increase, or only more carefully notified and diagnosed? These are only a few of the questions to which no definite answer can be given.

To accept defeat in the search is unthinkable; and all the more so because it seems likely that the solution when it comes will give us the key to several other of our scourges as well. For the answer will be nothing less than the discovery of what condition of the body is most favourable for life itself. Modern research discards tradition and tries to get down to fundamentals, using in the process the results of any of the sciences that may be relevant, — the study of the effects of force on material in physics; the material in chemistry. Both of these new sciences have already a vast literature of reference. The observations and experiments of the vast twenty years alone exceed the rare achievements of bygone centuries.

The first chemical art was probably the production of alcohol by fermentation by the priests of Egypt; but like many other arts it was not considered suitable to be imparted to the laity. The restless Greek temperament was intolerant of any restriction of free discussion, and by the time of Aristotle we find quite a fair amount of accurate knowledge of the interactions of the four elements; though unfortunately his great authority was a heavy shackle on original work for many centuries. Roger Bacon had to conceal his discoveries in pure chemistry after he found he was coming under suspicion as a wizard. Paracelsus of Basle founded a school of "intro-chemists" who experimented on the effect of drugs on the body; and there is a whole literature of text-books, written of course in Latin as the language of learning, which those who have studied it assure us contain so many accurate observations that it is strange that practical results were so few. The great handicap was of course the old habit of doing the generalisations first. As there were four elements it was taken for granted that there were four "humours" of the body. The one that did the mischief was the black humour; a theory that survives in our word "atrabillous." In the seventeenth century genuine experiment was practiced by Robert Boyle, who with Sir Christopher Wren and others founded the Royal Society for the Advancement of Science, with the favour of Charles II.

Only a specialist has the leisure to follow all the contemporary work; but if a summary of the attitude of the investigators is permissible it appears probable that our safety lies in keeping a correct balance of all our chemical constituents. Too much acid produces one set of ailments; too much alkali another. We most likely all have at one time or another a tendency to develop any of the ills that flesh is heir to, just as we probably at some time or another breathe in most of the hostile germs. The problem of preventive medicine is to keep the body in equipoise between the elements inclined to develop excessive vitality and the devitalising elements. If we find out how to cure an excess, we shall know how to deal with a deficiency resulting in some other disease to which we give quite a different name.

FILM PERSONALITIES IN COLONY.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Florey.

Two of Hollywood's most important film personalities, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Florey, are staying at the Hong Kong Hotel for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Florey have been travelling with the well-known comedian, Mr. Joe E. Brown. When Mr. Brown left for the Manila Games they decided to remain here for the purpose of taking films of local scenes.

Among the passengers arriving in the Colony yesterday, by the S.S. President-Jackson, was Mr. W. J. Dymont, traffic representative of the Canadian National Railways, who has returned from a business trip to Yokohama.

CHINA TO "STAND PAT" AWAITING DEVELOPMENTS AT GENEVA

NERVOUSNESS IN NORTH CREATED BY BOND MARKET GAMBLERS

Shanghai, May 14.
THERE is every indication that this is going to be a very interesting, and possibly even exciting, week. To many undoubtedly it will also be a very anxious one.

China is being pressed on two opposite and far-removed fronts, and in two different ways. Japan's military leaders appear to be getting restive again after a long period of inaction, and the tension in North China seems to be getting to that dangerously critical stage when a trifling "incident" may have far-reaching consequences, political as well as military. Simultaneously, Japanese diplomatic machinery is getting in motion again on the other side of the world, and sundry nods and winks are being made and hints dropped as to what Japan will do if the League of Nations decides to act along the lines suggested by Dr. Rajchman in his report.

China will stand pat, and await the development of events at Geneva. This week the League will be called upon to consider some aspects of the Far Eastern situation which have developed since Japan marched into Manchuria three years ago, and if you were living in Tientsin and heard the talk passing round there, you would not be surprised any day to read that the Japanese forces a few miles away had received new marching orders—and not for home. "Big Push" Expected.

For reasons which, no doubt, to Japan's spokesmen would seem utterly unreasonable and absurd, the impression is widely held among the Chinese that very soon there will be another "big push" by Japan. Whether it will be direct—by an advance into Shantung, occupation of Peiping and Tientsin, or landing in Fukien and seizure of ports and Customs—or whether it will be indirect by supporting an "independence" movement in Mongolia, or any other place where anybody feels disposed to start such a rising, is a matter upon which opinion is divided, but the point upon which many observers agree is that "something" is going to happen very soon, and that, what, when, and wherever it may be, it will mean more trouble for China.

So far as the North is concerned, the report that General Huang Fu, Chairman of the Peiping Political Affairs Readjustment Committee, will be soon returning to his post gives hope that the very threatening situation around the former capital may be prevented from becoming more serious. He has told local Pressmen, however, that the date of his departure from Shanghai is uncertain. He is under medical treatment, and his doctor forbids him to talk!

Diversion On New Front?
As to the possibility of trouble in Fukien, there are some who believe it would suit Japan's book to start a little diversion on a new front—especially as this could be done by giving the Navy an opportunity to demonstrate its efficiency.

So far, during the "undeclared war" on China, it is the Japanese army which has done most of the work, and occupation of Amoy and Foochow and patrol of the Fukien coast would give the Japanese navy something to do at little expense, and of possibly very considerable political importance. With Fukien under temporary Japanese protection—not occupation, or anything really serious like that, but merely protection in the interests of peace in the Far East—a very effective wedge would be driven between Nanking and Canton.

Recent developments, showing the greatly increased cordiality of understanding between the Chinese Government and the South-Western leaders, must have been observed with as much disapproval by Japan as they were regarded with satisfaction by those who are working so hard to bring about China's political solidarity.

Japan's New Policy.
Speaking of driving wedges, a rumour relating to Japan's "new China policy" is of considerable interest, and, if true, will prove of tremendous importance. It has been already indicated in Tokyo that when Mr. Arai-yoshi returns here he will bring with him a new policy for dealing with China, and the rumour settling "local questions" by "direct" is that this will take the form of negotiations to be conducted in three places simultaneously—Peiping, Nanking, and Canton (or Fukien).

General Huang Fu has a certain amount of authority from Nanking to settle local issues in North China, and the rumour is that Japan is going to encourage this method of settling differences with China. So far as such "direct negotiations" relate to purely local matters, there is something to be said for this way of handling Sino-Japanese difficulties.

The danger lies in the possibility of a wide difference of opinion as to what constitutes a "local issue", and whether national issues are not also involved.

The gasometer was raised to approximately the same level of the road before the explosion took place, the buildings opposite receiving the full blast of the concussion.—(King's Studio).

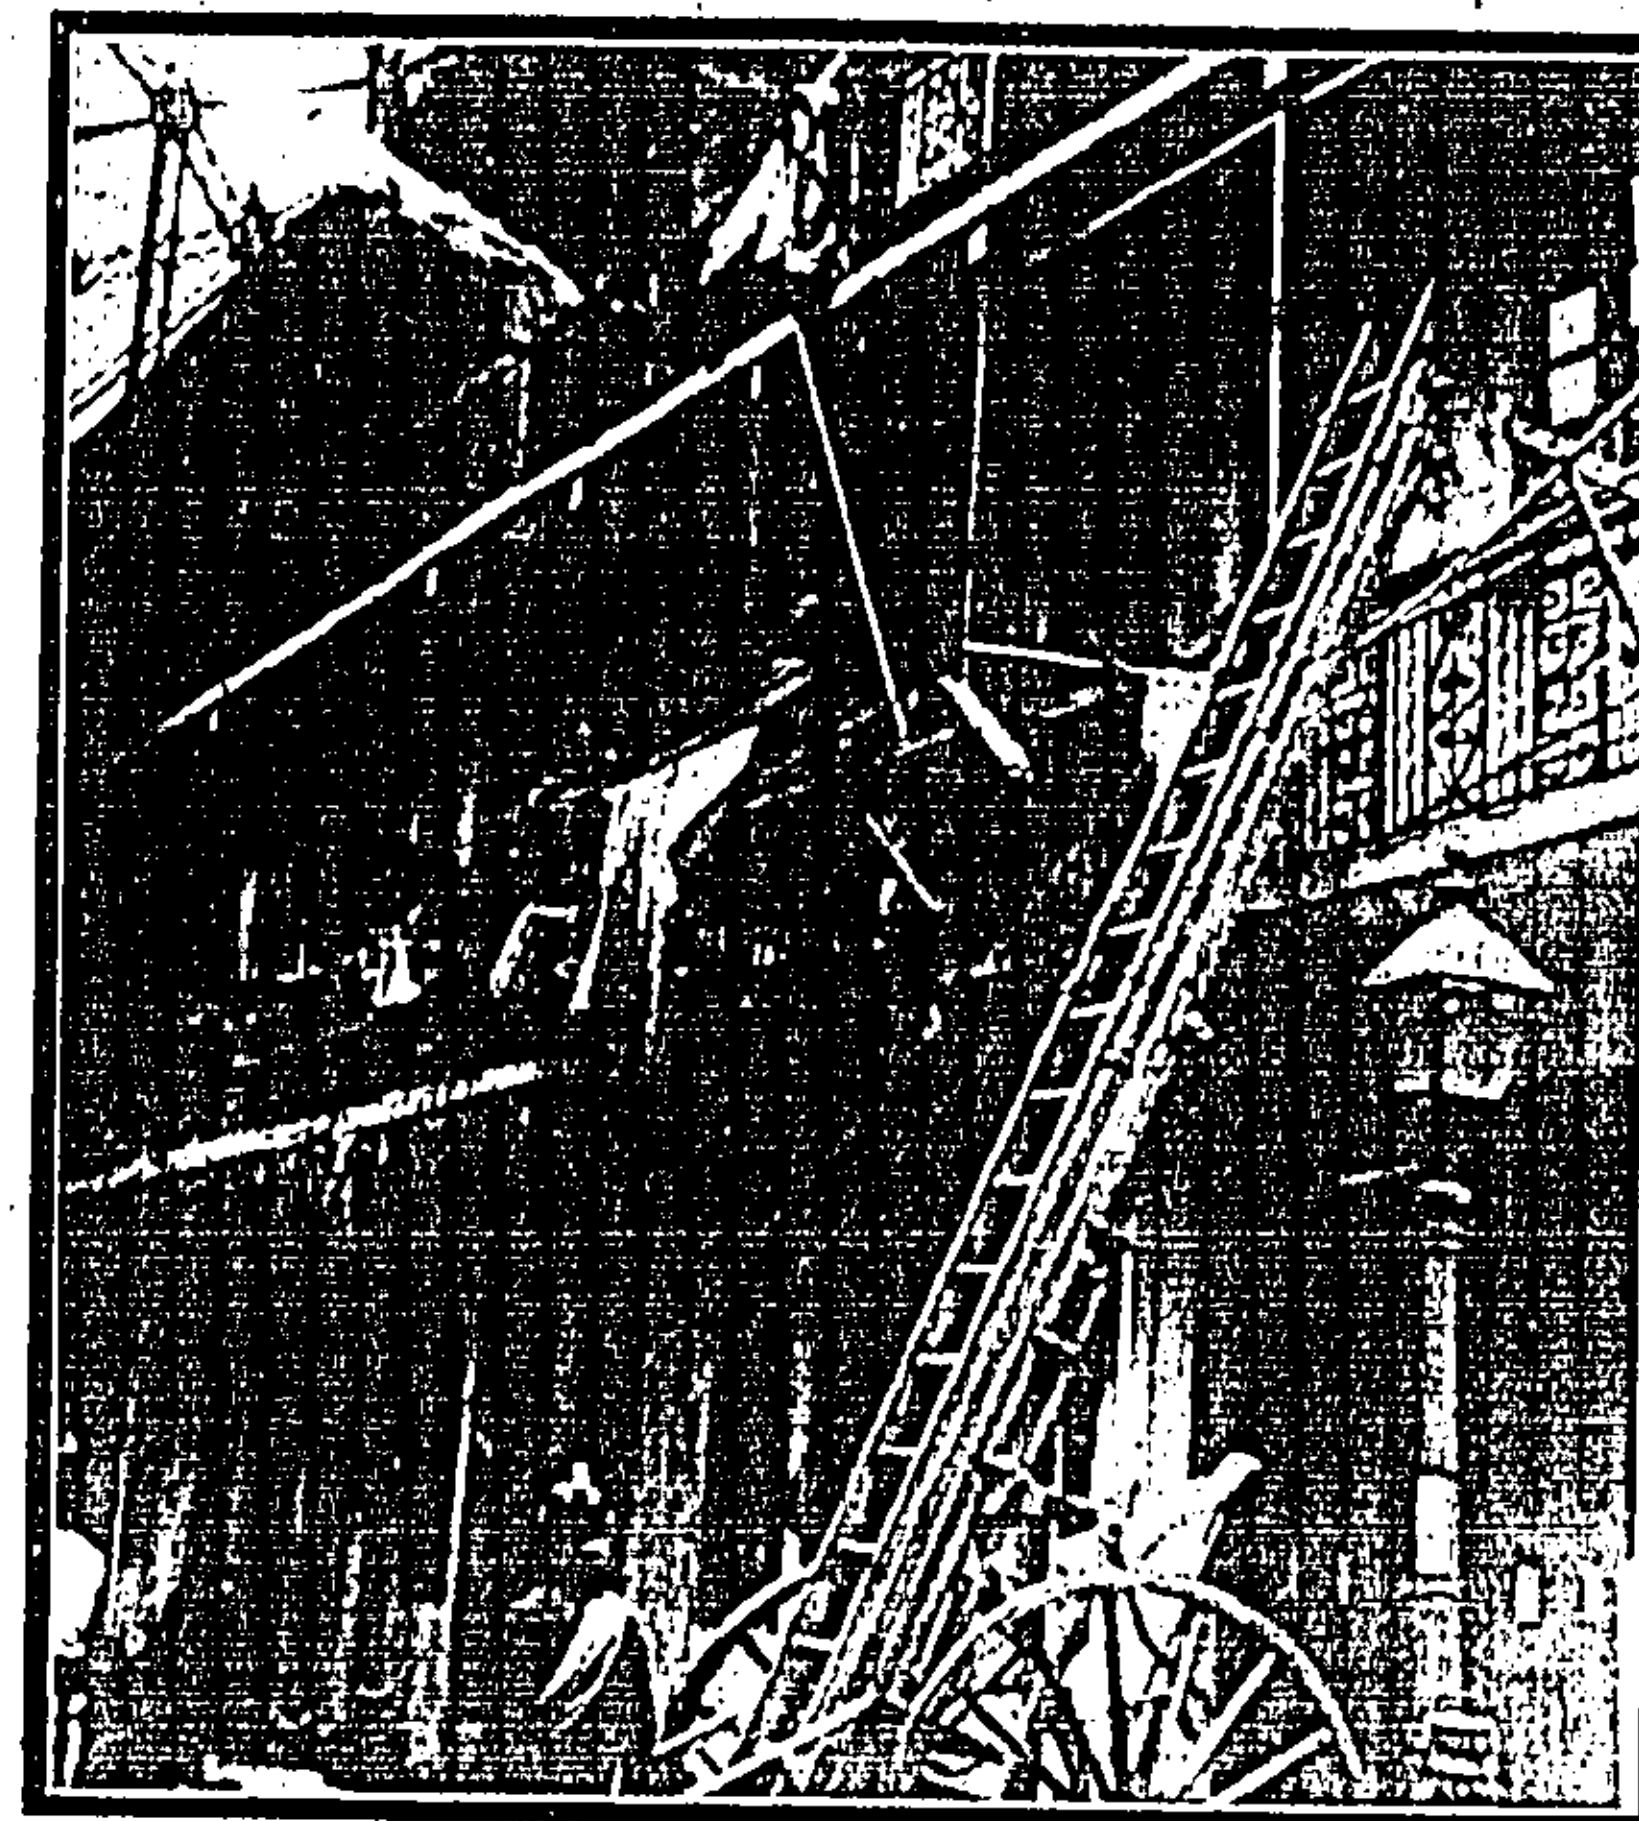

Darley Terrace, facing the gasometer, was left in a devastated condition following the explosion last Monday morning. This photograph was taken on the morning after the disaster.

THE rush and hurry of modern life result in nervous strain and loss of vitality. You become "run-down" and "nervy." The cause is simply that the wastage of the nerve cells and tissues has not been made good by sufficient of the restorative elements to be obtained only from nourishment.

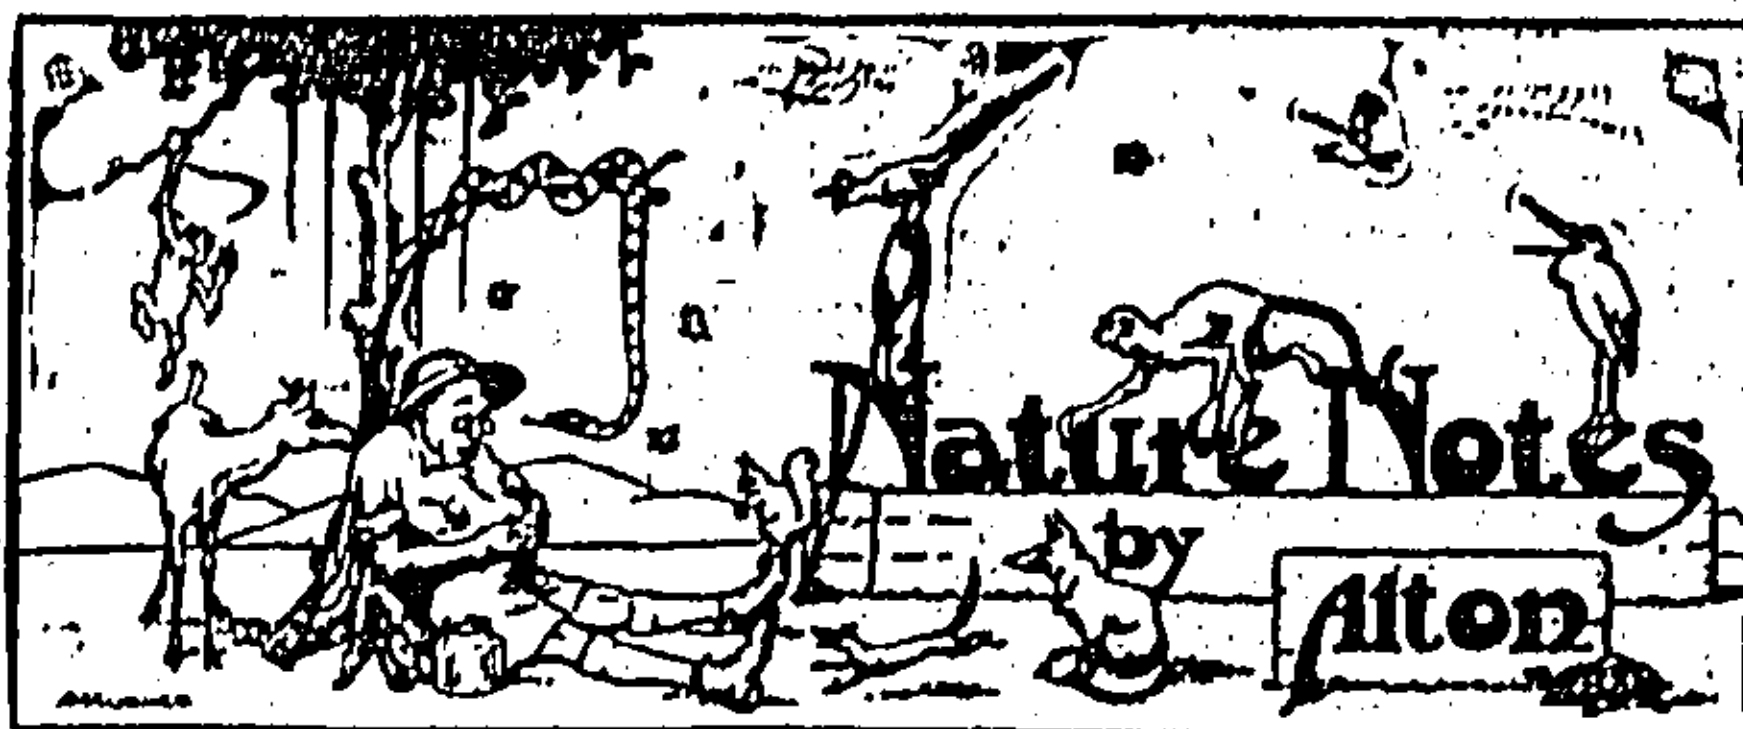

The food products from which "Ovaltine" is made—malt, milk and eggs—are Nature's foods which are richest in nerve restoring nourishment. Eggs, in particular, are rich in organic phosphorus compounds which are essential for building up the brain and nerves.

Drink this delicious beverage at and between meals instead of tea, coffee, etc. "Ovaltine" is richest in food value and most economical in use.

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES. — No. 105.

The Water-wheel Valley.

Very shortly after Tsun Wan has been passed on the Castle Peak road a stream, which drains a portion of the south-west slopes of Tai-mo-shan, flows under the road and enters the sea. A house is in course of construction on the west bank overlooking the latter part of the stream so the valley can easily be identified. The stream bed, before it enters the paddy area, is very steep and the fall of water has been put to good account for it provides power for no less than eight water-wheels. These supply the driving force for a number of hammers which are alternately raised and lowered and serve to pulverise into fine dust pieces of sandal wood which are placed beneath them. On Saturday afternoon 12th May we ascended this valley by a path which begins at the western foot of the valley but leaves it temporarily a little later to follow an outlying spur of a hill further to the west. Presently it descends again to the stream bed which it crosses and then winds up in a north easterly direction to the village of Chuen Lung at the height of something less than 900 feet.

At the very commencement of the walk just by the main road we heard a most extraordinary noise proceeding from the base of a rose bush by a little stream. It sounded like a kitten in distress but investigation showed that it was a frog in distress not a kitten. A rat snake, Ptyas korros, had caught in its mouth a frog and was endeavouring to get outside it to the evident displeasure of the frog. Some Chinese coolies passed and they too heard the squealing and immediately recognised its origin for they looked for the snake and attempted to catch it but the brush was too thick. This species of snake is frequently eaten by the Chinese and is known locally as quor schue young, jump-over-tree-snake. There are plenty of reptiles about these days and every walk we have made recently has revealed a snake and a few lizards.

Another unusual sound attracted our attention a little later, a prolonged squeaky squawk as fledglings nearly ready to leave the nest. This proceeded from a party of drongos which were apparently making love in a clump of pine trees on the summit of a little knoll. We did not identify the species of drongo. On our return we again saw drongos and also in the wood behind the village of Muk Min Ha we saw two Golden Orioles and heard their characteristic whistle. In Volume II of Stuart Baker's recent work on the "Nidification of Birds of the Indian Empire" he mentions that this Oriole very often chooses to build its nest in close proximity to that of a drongo's, either in the same tree or in an immediate neighbour. The drongo is an aggressive bird and drives away such marauders as kites and magpies and presumably in so doing defends in addition to its own nest the nest of the oriole. It is interesting to note in the two localities where we have seen orioles this year, namely Pokfulam and Tsun Wan, that drongos are abundant. We should be interested to hear whether other observers have noted the same association of these birds.

Two interesting plants were observed in flower on the shoulder of the hill at the beginning of the climb one was Clerodendron canescens. Our previous record for this plant is the same date in 1931 behind Big Wave Bay, Shek O. Several species of Clerodendron are cultivated for the beauty of their flowers, this species has pure white flowers arranged in a compact panicle at the apex of the plant. The other plant was Melodinus suaveolens, (see N.N. No. 104), also in full flower. On the following day on the Peak we noticed both of the other two species of Melodinus in flower, namely M. monogynus and M. fusiformis. In the former of these the scales of the corolla are free, in M. suaveolens they are united to the middle, in M. fusiformis the scales are very short and the sepals are acute, whereas in the other two species they are pointed.

The village of Chuen Lung (Green Dragon?) is interesting and well worth a visit; on the day in question it did not yield an abundance of birds. One pair of birds was observed which we were pleased to see, namely a pair of Philippine Red-tailed Shrikes, smaller and more somberly plumaged than the common resident Rufous-backed Shrike. Oddly enough a second pair of the same species, was noted on our return at the foot of the valley. We use the word 'pair' advisedly for in both cases male and female shrikes were recognised, there is a subtle difference in colouring especially in the grey of the crown. This suggests that possibly this summer migrant shrike nests in these Territories, we have no record as yet of their nesting in the Colony.

Finally, on our return, whilst eating a belated tea, we saw a Black-capped Kingfisher. It flew down to a field caught an insect and returned to a perch to consume it; we saw it off and on, for several minutes. This species and its close relative the White-breasted Kingfisher both are wood-kingfishers (as contrasted with water-kingfishers) and live largely on insects and crabs. This species will be illustrated by a coloured plate in the next issue of the Hong Kong Naturalist. It differs from the White-breasted Kingfisher in having a black head and deep blue back instead of a maroon head and green-blue back.

Snakes. May we repeat the warning about cobras that we gave last week. On 13 May on Hong Kong Island a friend was attacked by a large cobra, after it had been provoked by stones, and only with difficulty did he dispose of the reptile. Do not throw stones at large snakes unless you are prepared to be savagely attacked and if so and you do survive please send us the corpse as more data on the habits of our local venomous snakes is keenly desired.

The Chinese Government has been working steadily to establish a united front in all matters concerned with international relations, and negotiations by Japan with three different Chinese administrative authorities would be equivalent to driving a wedge into this united front which would weaken tremendously the authority of the Central Government. At the moment, this report of Japan's new policy is a rumour only, but it is one not so improbable as some which are current these days.

Speculators' Rumours. Indirect indication of the nervousness prevailing is to be found in the wild rumours flying round which so many are ready to accept seriously. For example, some foreigners here are quite convinced that between China and Japan there is an arrangement already in operation whereby Japanese goods are admitted duty-free, in order to make it impossible for European importers to compete in this market! Seeing how anxious China is to establish and develop her home industries, the absurdity of this story is so obvious as to make it a joke. Then we were told General Chiang Kai-shek was shortly proceeding to Tokyo to conduct direct negotiations for the settlement of Sino-Japanese questions.

Most of these yarns originate in the fertile imaginations of gamblers on the bond market and among other speculators. Their interest in current political and international affairs is confined strictly to the possibility of making "easy money", but when these rumours, originally planned to rig the market, get out among less sophisticated citizens they produce a degree of nervousness and alarm which does no good to legitimate business. There are so many danger-points nowadays that business-men are not disposed to make plans very far ahead, especially with the uncertainty which now prevails in regard to China's chances of receiving support from Geneva in her efforts at national reconstruction.

THE FACTS ABOUT SANPIEN Charges Against Mission Refuted. PRESS REPORTS DENIED.

In an article in the "China Weekly Review" of April 7, entitled: "Where Imperialism Penetrates Through the Church," a contributing editor, Mr. C. Y. W. Meng, makes some serious charges against the Catholic Mission of Sanpien on the northern border of Shensi. His strictures are an echo of similar ones which appeared in the "China Critic" of March 15 and generally throughout the foreign and particularly the native press.

He states that the Catholic Mission of Sanpien continues without a semblance of right to exercise ownership over an extensive area near the Great Wall, which, he asserts, the Mission acquired as an indemnity after the Boxer Uprising with the right of developing it till 1915 only. To use his own words: "... the whole land of Sen-Bel (Sanpien) was being mortgaged to the French Church, which is no less than 800 square miles. It was being agreed by two parties that after 15 years the contract should be considered as ipso facto expired and the land should be returned to the local government unconditionally." "Sen Bel, or 'Three Frontiers', consists of three halves, namely, Ting Bel (Tingpien), Chang Bel (Tsingpien), and An Bel (Anpien), situated in the extreme north of Shansi, bordering on Inner Mongolia." "Shansi" may or may not be a typographical error; at any rate, the fact is these places are located in Shensi.

PRESS REPORTS DENIED.

In an article in the "China Weekly Review" of April 7, entitled: "Where Imperialism Penetrates Through the Church," a contributing editor, Mr. C. Y. W. Meng, makes some serious charges against the Catholic Mission of Sanpien on the northern border of Shensi. His strictures are an echo of similar ones which appeared in the "China Critic" of March 15 and generally throughout the foreign and particularly the native press.

He states that the Catholic Mission of Sanpien continues without a semblance of right to exercise ownership over an extensive area near the Great Wall, which, he asserts, the Mission acquired as an indemnity after the Boxer Uprising with the right of developing it till 1915 only. To use his own words: "... the whole land of Sen-Bel (Sanpien) was being mortgaged to the French Church, which is no less than 800 square miles. "Sen Bel, or 'Three Frontiers', consists of three halves, namely, Ting Bel (Tingpien), Chang Bel (Tingpien), and An Bel (Anpien), situated in the extreme north of Shansi, bordering on Inner Mongolia." "Shansi" may or may not be a typographical error; at any rate, the fact is these places are located in Shensi.

For the past 19 years, the article continues, the Mission has unjustly retained this land, over which it "exercised all administrative, political, and judicial powers." "It is further revealed that the annual production from the land is estimated about $2,000,000 per year, but all this goes to the Church. Actually Sen Bel is a French 'Colony' or a foreign settlement or concession!"

Instead of immediately sympathising with Mr. Meng, our past experience in such matters dictated a wiser course: first make sure of the facts. We found without much difficulty persons well acquainted with the region in question, one, in particular, who had actually spent 20 years of his life in it. Father Anthony Mostaert, a scholar of international repute, author of important works on the language of the Mongols, especially as spoken in the Ordos. We consulted excellent maps in the Peking National Library.

We looked up the Postal Guide, statistics, and official reports. We even managed to secure a photograph of the original property deed. The facts bared by this investigation confirmed the suspicion that Mr. Meng had been grossly misinformed and that his fears regarding missionary imperialism were in this instance, as probably in many others, entirely without foundation.

Wedding Breakfasts

MISS Helen Yu told an amusing story at the beginning of her very delightful address at the Rotary Club on Tuesday, of a nervous bridegroom who had made every effort to dodge the inevitable speech. Absentmindedly resting his hand on the shoulder of the bride, he began "My friends, this thing has been forced upon me." What recollections this recalls of that most terrible ordeal, the "wedding breakfast," which only disappeared about forty years ago owing to an alteration in the Marriage Law. In the old days when Gretna Green was flourishing and elopements were common; and when parental authority was a very serious reality; no marriage was legal unless it was performed before noon. This gave the irate father some hours of daylight and a run for his money. The ceremony used to be: about eleven; and the guests then returned to the parental home for a long and stodgy sit-down meal for which no one had the least appetite. Interminable speeches were inflicted upon them which were only rarely consciously funny, but often funny unconsciously. I remember one stammering best-man explaining that he had known the bride, and had watched her with admiration growing up from year to year. "In fact I may say that I know intimately every inch of her."

AN interesting point was the distinction between the English habit of taking patriotism for granted and the Italian exuberance. England owing to the chances of history was the first country in Europe to get the sentiment of unity, however strong local tradition may be on the near side of the national line. "In Italy when the excitement of the Risorgimento died down the current seemed to run towards a revival of the old medieval patriotisms; and statesmen like Giolitti did not appeal to the general imagination. Duce has performed a great service by turning the current the other way; and we shall have a chance of hearing something about this next Wednesday when Mr. E. Bacci will give a lecture on "Some Aspects of Fascism" at half past five at the Grill Room of the Hong Kong Hotel.

THE rise in the dollar came at a very awkward moment for the commercials who were doing their Spring Tour, and who had to sit tight to see whether they could quote at a firm price at something like the figure which they had been mentioning a day or two before. Of all things in the world they seem to have amused themselves by writing poetry; it would be safer to say verse. Here is a specimen that has been circulating under the above title:—

He sat with his order book open
A code-book lay near by;
His note book was bulging with offers,
All rotten; but he'd promised to try.

He put all his facts into figures,
Included the phrase 'best can do';
He coded the stuff in ten letters
And chopped every word into two.

He then joined each word to its brother
And checked all the offers he'd got;
He reckoned the cost out in dollars
And tore up the whole blooming lot.

A kick from his conscience disturbed him,
It wasn't quite playing the game;
He'd accepted free forms from the Company
And he ought to make use of the same.

He typed out the text of the message,
Each five-letter carefully read;
He entered the North-East-South-Western
And to the poor cable clerk said
"This cable is not very useful."

ALLEGED FORGED SIGNATURE

Case Withdrawn Against Chinese Bank Director.

"NO CRIMINAL INTENT"

On the application of Mr. H. L. Denny, before Mr. E. W. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy, yesterday, the charges against Wong Yun-tong, a director of the Bank of East Asia, for feloniously forging the signature of Wong Shut-on, with intent to defraud, of a deed of transfer, and against Wong Wai-pak, with aiding and abetting, were both withdrawn.

The deed was for the transfer of 50 shares alleged to have been taken place between May 1919 and February 1933.

Mr. Denny in making the application said:—
"In this case it is common ground that the transfer was in fact signed by Wong Yun-tong in the name of my client, Wong Shut-on, and this proceeding was started. Since then I have ascertained that the facts, which my clients admit, are as follows:—

"The 50 shares were in fact bought by Wong Yun-tong for my client in 1919, by Wong Yun-tong drawing on the funds of the Cheong Shing Loong Firm, and debiting my client's account in that firm. When the bonus shares were issued they were also taken up by Wong Yun-tong on behalf of my client, and in both instances without even reference to my client, who was in Japan. The shares therefore stood in the records of the Bank in the name, it is true, of my client Wong Shut-on, but this name was all along signed for by Wong Yun-tong.

"My client was indebted to the Cheong Shing Loong Firm, and in November, 1932, Wong Yun-tong sold those shares at a proper price and credited my client's account with the proceeds, and reduced his indebtedness to the firm by this amount.

"No Criminal Intent."
"On these facts I have no hesitation in saying that there was absolutely no criminal intent or any other criminality on the part of Wong Yun-tong.

"As regards Wong Wai-pak, he was aware of all the circumstances, and he witnessed Wong Yun-tong's signature bona fide, and in his case also there was absolutely no criminal intent or any other criminality. On behalf of my client I regret the inconvenience to which they have been put, and I ask the Court to allow me to withdraw on the terms that both defendants leave this Court without any stain or reflection upon their character and reputation, which is very high indeed in the commercial community."

Mr. M. K. Lo, who appeared for the defence, said that he would like to associate himself with Mr. Denny's remarks.

If necessary, he would have produced records of the firm and also of the Bank of East Asia which would have borne out what Mr. Denny has already said. In granting the withdrawal, Mr. Hamilton said that he hoped that the matter, which was apparently a family matter, would be amicably settled.

The Three Greatest Events In History

Whitsuntide Records A Momentous Happening

THE GIFT OF PENTECOST

(By the Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by the local Army chaplain.)

If you were asked to select and name the three greatest events in the world's history, what would you choose?

I venture to suggest that they should be events raised above the affairs of nations and continents, or confined in their effect to any particular date. They must be concerned with all humanity, they must go deep down to the depths of all human need.

Well, if there be a God at all, could there possibly be any event fraught with more importance to the world than the occasions of His revelation of Himself?

I suggest therefore that the three greatest events are these:

1. The day when God the Father came down from heaven and took the first and necessary step towards the creation of life upon this floating sphere, which we call the earth,—when He uttered the immortal words, "Let there be light," and there was light; and out of the light came life,—physical and natural life in all the complex forms we see about us to-day. And not only natural life, but spiritual life also, for He breathed into man, and man became a living soul, related not only to the beasts of the field, but also to God Himself, with the capacity not only to eat and drink and sleep and work, but with the capacity also to worship and commune with his Maker.

2. And then when men, by their wilfulness ruined that plan, used the gift of free-will to ignore, and reject Him, and nearly extinguished the lamp within them that God had lighted, and were in danger of losing that spiritual life there followed the second of the greatest events,—when God the Son came down to earth to re-kindle the sacred flame. Christmas Day marks—a turning point in human history. Every time we write a letter, or make out a cheque, we pay an unconscious tribute to that supreme fact. We cannot get away from it, whether it means much to us or little.

3. The third we commemorate to-day,—this Whit Sunday, which marks the day when God the Holy Spirit came down to earth, to take the place of Him Who had finished His work, ascended, and had now sat down at the right Hand of God;—to be amongst us for ever as the Lamp of Life.

Three Great Missions.

These then are the three great enterprises of God on our behalf, His three great missions to men. Father, Son, and Holy Spirit have come to us in turn. In the Old Testament we read always "God said"; that is the Father said. In the Gospels we read always, "Jesus said". In the Acts of the Apostles, and ever since we read "The Holy Ghost said."

The Holy Spirit has never been withdrawn, and Whitsunday records a happening that is continually being repeated. As some one has suggested, by way of illustration, the first illuminated letter of a book is not the only letter. It is the beginning of a series of many letters that are continued in regular sequence, line after line, until the book is closed. The book of life is not yet closed, and until it closes the Holy Spirit is continually alighting on the pages of our human story, wherever He can find a resting place.

His work is never done, as long as there is human sin, so long will it endure. In the Bible we have a list of His numerous activities;—striving with men in spite of their resistance; directing them in all that they do; comforting them in sorrow, helping them in weakness, giving them a right judgment in all things. At one time likened unto fire—lighting, thawing, at another unto water—refreshing, cleansing; at another likened unto wind—shaking, driving; at another unto oil—soothing, healing; at another likened unto a voice—the still small Voice of God, speaking, warning.

The great trouble in life is that we fail to realize these things, and the Holy Spirit is what music is to a man who is deaf, or what a painting is to some one who is colour-blind.

God made us free, but think of how perilous that freedom can be! It makes it possible for us utterly to ignore Him, even to resist and defy Him. It is possible to become so hard of heart,—through pride and contempt, or through habitual sin, or even through familiarity with holy things, that He stands outside a door that is barred and bolted against Him.

The Guiding Spirit.

After all, He cannot be expected to share the dwelling of a human heart where uncleanness dwells, where bitterness and unkindness continually have their abode, where self comes first in everything, where there is no thought or care for the well-being of others, where there is no time or place for the things that really matter.

When friends come to stay with us, we never think of giving them a room in a basement or in an attic, where there is no light or view. We give them of our very best for friendship's sake, because we want to keep them as friends, and make them as happy as we possibly can.

So Whit Sunday comes around again, in the cycle of the year to remind us that the Gift of Pentecost is still man's best friend, over planning his eternal good and happiness, able to help him to live his best, to save him from missing the things most worth having, to keep his face turned homewards; to give peace, joy, and content in life; to steer him clear of the rocks, and guide him to the haven where he would be. To all who trust Him, He is their guiding star, a lamp to guide their footsteps along the pathway of life.

And then in the day when all else has gone, when all human faces slip away from our recognition, and we can no longer feel the touch of any human hand, and hear the speaking of any human voice, we shall not be groping alone in the darkness. The Holy Spirit will be with us, and He will lead us home.

ADVENTURES AMONG THE "WILD MEN"

Interesting Lecture By Missionary.

BORNE RIVER THRILLS

ON Thursday evening, the Rev. G. E. Fisk, a pioneer missionary among the Dyaks of the Netherland East Indies, gave a very interesting lecture on the customs and religious practices of the "wild men" of Borneo, at the weekly Sunday School Teacher Training and Bible Study Class, held at the home of the Rev. John Bechtel, 26 Mody Road, Kowloon.

Mr. Fisk introduced his lecture by giving the geographical location of his work in the interior of Borneo, and mentioned some of the difficulties he encountered when missionary work was started on the island five years ago. After opening a station on the coast, it was soon found that if the Dyaks of interior Borneo were to be reached by the Gospel, work would have to be opened in the interior. With this in mind an itinerant trip was made into the inland jungles, and later a station was opened among the natives.

Owing to the topographical features of Borneo, which is made up mostly of high mountains and dense jungles, rivers take the place of roadways, and as a result most of the travelling in Borneo is done in native "prows," which are long wooden dug-outs, constructed by the Dyaks.

Mr. Fisk described a trip by river into the interior of Borneo, and said that the first part of the trip is made in a boat equipped with an outboard motor. When the rapids are reached, the outboard motor has to be discarded, and the balance of the trip is made by short stages of river travel. In many places the river is so swift and the rapids so dangerous that the cargo has to be transported by carrier and the dug-outs pulled over the rapids. One stretch of the river, 240 miles in length, requires two months to be covered. It is Mr. Fisk's purpose to bring back a two-placed hydro-plane from America, and thus reduce the two months' trip to a matter of hours.

Mr. Fisk told of one incident when he lost the cargo of a large dug-out owing to the sudden capsizing of the boat. Frequently in "shooting a rapid," the Dyak oarsmen make a slight miscalculation with the result that the dug-out crashes into a large boulder, and the entire contents of the canoe is lost. On this occasion only the quick rescue work of the oarsmen of another dug-out resulted in the saving of two of the Dyaks who were sucked into a whirlpool. A heavy toll of lives is reaped by the numerous dangerous rapids and whirlpools of the river. One stretch of rapids is so treacherous that a log entering the upper part of the rapids is ground to pulp before it reaches the lower end of the rapids.

The First Convert.

One of the first natives to receive the Gospel message was a Dyak Chieftain, who proved to be very friendly and of great assistance in introducing missionary work among the "wildmen" of Borneo. Upon hearing that the missionaries were bringing the message of the true God, he hastened to Mr. Fisk, and with tears in his eyes, thanked him for coming to Borneo, and said that he and his people had been waiting for years to hear the Gospel.

Mr. Fisk, during the course of his lecture, described some of the peculiar customs of the people among whom he has been working during the past five years. Medicine men and native magicians keep the Dyaks in constant fear of evil spirits, and the superstitious people are kept in bondage to an intricate system of spirit worship and divination. Not only does the spirit world control the religious destinies of the people, but the daily lives of the Dyaks are under the direction of the influences of good and evil spirits.

The chicken-hawk is supposed to be an spirit, and if, during a canoe voyage, one of these unlucky birds happens to fly in a specified direction across the path of the canoe, it is considered a very bad omen, and the trip has to be abandoned. While working in their rice-fields, the Dyaks do all of their labour with their heads down, in order not to see a chicken hawk if one should chance to fly over the rice field. The whistling of another Borneo bird is also considered to be a bad omen, so the natives stuff their ears with stoppers to keep them from hearing the whistling of the unlucky bird. In some cases the Dyaks prefer to suffer from starvation rather than to plant their rice without the sanction of the medicine man, who uses a peculiar instrument, patterned after the style of a sun-dial, to divine the proper time to plant rice. Sometimes the Government has to dispatch soldiers to force the Dyaks to plant rice, and thus check the possibility of a famine.

A Gruesome Custom.

The most gruesome custom practiced by the Dyaks is that of head hunting. The Netherlands Government has practically stamped out this cruel practice, which was the cause of great anxiety to the natives, because there always existed the possibility of their village being raided, and in some cases whole communities have been wiped out, the heads of all the inhabitants being taken. During a war between the members of rival tribes scores of human heads were taken by the warriors, because a young man was not considered to be worthy the title of "warrior" unless he had some heads to his credit. In some tribes a young man was not eligible for marriage until he had a head to his credit.

Although inter-tribal warfare has been stopped by the authorities, heads are still taken, and Dyaks usually travel in numbers to avoid being taken unawares in the jungle and their heads chopped off. According to their custom the heads of women and children are just as valuable as those of warriors, therefore, the heads of many innocent victims have been taken. These heads, after the skin and flesh are removed, are hung over the fireplace in the longhouse, which sometimes accommodate scores of families. Mr. Fisk has seen many of these smoke-blackened skulls suspended from the ceiling over the village fireplace, and on one occasion assisted some converted Dyaks in throwing over a hundred heads in the river.

The spirits of the departed are said to live in the skulls so they are worshipped by the people. In times of drought, the skulls are taken to the river side, and there are submerged and washed in water, this being the method of influencing the rain to come. Mr. Fisk showed one of the skulls, which had been given to him by a converted Dyak, who after becoming a Christian abandoned the practice of headhunting, and of headworship.

Curios Exhibited.

The Dyaks do all of their hunting by means of poisoned arrows, which they shoot from long blowguns. The spear and a long knife are also part of the equipment of every Dyak. Mr. Fisk displayed some of the poisoned darts, which were dipped in a poison so deadly that persons or large animals pricked by the darts die in less than 15 minutes. The Dyaks make up the poison themselves from a secret formula. The poison does not pollute the meat of animals but effects the nervous system, hence the meat is edible. There are any wild animals and snakes in Borneo. Mr. Fisk displayed one 12-foot python skin which he had killed in the jungle.

Mr. Fisk illustrated his lecture on Borneo with many articles and curios from the Netherland East Indies. The Dyaks are a musical race, and Mr. Fisk played a short tune on a nose flute, and gave two selections from the Dyak war dance ritual on a reed pipe made from a gourd and bamboo. A complete suit of Dyak armour, including a head hunting knife, which had been actually used for taking heads, and was decorated with human hair taken from a head, was on display. A Dyak war shield, fringed with hair from a decapitated victim, was also shown to the audience. The shields are made of soft wood, and in combat one warrior tries to force his opponent to thrust his sword through the shield. The knife cannot be withdrawn from the soft wood, and the conquering warrior calmly beholds his weaponless, helpless opponent.

During his five years ministry among the Dyaks of Borneo, hundreds of natives have heard and accepted the Gospel of Christ, among those who were baptised being a native chieftain of considerable influence. Mr. Fisk, who has had some medical training, has charge of a clinic, which was erected and supplied by the Dutch government. His work among the Dyaks of Borneo has received the highest commendation of the officials.

Mr. Fisk, is a missionary connected with the Christian and Missionary Alliance, an American pioneer mission, with 500 mis-

TWO TRACK RECORDS SHATTERED AT RACE MEETING

The Pineapple Handicap provided Mr. Deitz with his fourth winner of the afternoon when Cavalcade, the favourite, won by two lengths from In Good Time (Mr. Ip) after a keen tussle over the last three furlongs. The ponies were in the following order passing the stands for the first time: Chow Fan (Mr. Tang), Dancing Butterfly (Mr. Proulx), Surprise (Mr. Chanson), Copper Idol (Mr. Harriman), Cavalcade, and In Good Time.

Approaching the football stands, however, Dancing Butterfly, who had been displaced, suddenly bored out to the outer rail, and Mr. Proulx was unable to get him to go further, thus failing to finish the distance.

In a good finish jockeyship saw Mr. Deitz win on Cavalcade, Mr. Good Time beating Copper Idol for second place. Chow Fan was fourth.

The Second Record.

A "B" Class pony provided the second record of the afternoon when High Finance, who was ridden beautifully by Mr. Paul Botelho, clocked 2.00.2 over a mile and 171 yards to shatter Racing Heart's Annual Meeting record by 6.2/5 secs.

The Goose (Mr. Butler), the favourite, Lucy Glitters (Mr. Proulx), second favourite, and 'Vriday' (Mr. Chanson) set the pace at the start, and the order was not changed at the football stands. In the back straight St. Joan was sent up into a challenging position.

Luck Glitters faded out of the race after passing the Rock and the race then looked to be 'Vriday's'.

Mr. Botelho, however, came through beautifully on the outside into the home straight to spring a surprise by winning in record time, by two lengths from St. Joan (Mr. Deitz), who finished very strongly. 'Vriday' secured third place, ahead of The Goose, to pay $65.50, the highest dividend of the day.

Owing to 'Vriday's' breastplate being broken the pony had to be led in by Mr. Chanson, otherwise he might have slipped from the saddle. It is a rare sight to see a jockey lead in his mount.

Mr. Mossop Badly Hurt.

The Novices' race, the last event on the card, marred the afternoon's sport in that there were two spills, Mr. H. S. V. Mossop being so badly hurt when he was unseated by Rose Leaf in the back straight, that he had to be removed to the War Memorial Hospital. Mr. J. Barrow also experienced a spill, falling from Chivalrous when up with the leaders in the field of 20 starters on the corner into the home straight. He was exceedingly fortunate to escape only with a shaking.

Mr. Taylor had the distinction of riding his first winner on the Colony turf when he piloted Fudge in first past the post to pay $16.60.

He sent the pony out into the lead from the start and maintained his advantage to beat King's Parade (Mr. Poy) by 2 lengths. Burgomaster (Mr. Jordan) beat Iron Grey (Mr. Tang Man Wa) for third place.

The start of the race—a ticklish job with novice riders—was quite one of the best seen this season. Rose Leaf was second to Fudge some 50 yards from the Rock when Mr. Mossop was thrown. Coming into the home straight Chivalrous was in a challenging position when Mr. Barrow pitched right over his pony's head. He immediately got up and was out of danger when the field thundered past!

Two Russians, Dmitri Vasilievich Kuznetsoff and Vasil Michael Ivanoff, were charged before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy, yesterday morning, with entering the Colony without passports.

Kuznetsoff, who had been imprisoned in 1931 for a similar offence, was fined $250, in default six months' hard labour. An order for the expulsion of Ivanoff was made.

Mr. Hamilton: "I am sorry, but if you ever come back to Hong Kong again, I will sentence you to six months' imprisonment."

Ivanoff: "I shall never come back again."

HONG KONG UNIVERSITY TAKE LEAD

When 200 yards from the tape Blake managed to pass Chan, but Chan, with a magnificent final sprint, passed Blake to win by three yards.

Lo Koon Yee (L.) and Cheung Kai Kwan (S.) showed fine style in the Pole Vault. Tso Shiu Fai (S.) had a good take off but invariably breasted the bar with disastrous results. Lo Koon Yee showed the best form throughout and easily cleared the 3.17 metres, at which height Cheung failed on three occasions.

Lo did not make an attempt on the record, as he was required for the High Hurdles. Chua Kheng Yu, the Hong Kong hope, strained his ankle while practising, and was thus unable to compete.

The Ladies' Putting the Weight witnessed an easy victory for Miss Kwok Ki Wei (S.) who beat Miss Ma Hing Sun by a comfortable margin. The Hong Kong contenders were very weak in this event.

Knocks Hurdle Down

In the 110 Metres High Hurdles Tan Yon Nee (H.K.) again got away to a fine start, but he had only a very slight lead over Lo Koon Yu (L.). The two took the first four hurdles together, but Lo knocked down the fifth and lost his stride which enabled Tan to take the lead. In the final 20 metres, however, Lo was catching up on Tan, but the Hong Kong man just managed to win.

The Open 800 Metres attracted only six competitors, three of whom finished, L/Cpl. Finnelly, winner of the Open 800 Metres at both the Wah Tat and Hong Kong University sports meetings, secured the triple by beating Lo Poon Chu by 10 yards.

L/Cpl. Thornhill ran a good race, but was handicapped by an injured elbow which he had bound up.

Hong Kong ran away with the Putting the Weight event, despite the fact that their best man, V. Vargassoff, was in Harbin on his vacation. Vargassoff's younger brother, however, won the event with a putt of 10.13 metres. This was nearly equalled by V. Sorokin (H.K.), who also showed good balance. Cheung Yung Lun (S.) strove desperately hard, but his balance was at fault, and he threw the shot about three or four feet behind Sorokin.

The Ladies' 100 Metres was a keenly contested event in which Miss Leung Sin Wah's (S.) good start decided the race. Miss Alice Wood was running second until the last 10 yards when Miss Kwok flashed past her to secure the verdict by a narrow margin.

In the Long Jump, Chung Lim Ki (S.) Wong Chi Man (L.) and Tan Yon Nee (H.K.) were all within a foot of one another. All three adopted the modern method of attempting to secure a further distance by kicking while in the air.

St. Joseph's Relay Race

In the Schools' Relay race Wah Yan defeated St. Joseph's by ten yards, thus avenging the defeat inflicted on them, at their own sports meeting, by the Saints.

D. S. Blake (H.K.) just succeeded in winning the 1,500 metres from Chiu Fai by inches. Chiu led for the first three laps, only to be overtaken by Blake in the fourth.

Blake held his lead until 150 yards from the post when Chiu made a spectacular spurt to pass him. Blake, however, had more in reserve and just pipped Chiu on the post.

The Ladies' 200 Metres Relay race witnessed an easy win for Sun Yat Sen, but there was a hard struggle for second place between Lingnam and Hong Kong, and had Miss Wong received the baton in the correct manner from Miss Kwok, Hong Kong might have secured second place.

In the 400 metres Relay Hong Kong took a slight lead through the efforts of Tan Yon Nee, and V. Grunberg, but lost it to Ling Kit Man (S.) through Tsang Koon Kok, who was also passed by Lei Ping Lu. Only a brilliant dash by Lo Koon Yee enabled Sun Yat Sen to beat Lingnam in an exciting finish.

The Ladies Club, 1st Battalion, of the South Wales Borderers, will hold their fortnightly Whist Drive and Tombola in Murray Barracks on Saturday, May 26 commencing at 8 p.m.

The Facts About Sanpien

Land Was Bought.

In the first place, it was not a question of land acquired for a limited period only, as an indemnity or even part of one. The territory under discussion was purchased outright in 1901 from the Mongolian Banner of Otok with a view to irrigating it—for, it consisted chiefly of barren dunes, or sand hills—and settling upon it poor emigrants from Shensi.

The land acquired by the Mission is situated entirely outside the Great Wall. It is of considerable area, to be sure, but Mr. Meng's description of it as "the whole land of Sen Bei" which is no less than 300 square miles is ridiculous. In the first place, his "three halens" shrink to two when we discover that Anpien is only a "pu" forming part of Tsinpien. Secondly, by far the major part of both Tsinpien and Tsinpien lie within the Great Wall, whereas the Mission property lies entirely without it. It follows that at most it could only cover a very minor portion of these two halens. Thirdly, the Postal Guide gives the estimated population of Tsinpien and Tsinpien as approximately 90,000. If, as Mr. Meng claims, only Catholics were permitted to settle on the Sanpien tract, it follows that there ought to be at least 90,000 of them. If the Mission is indeed "the whole land of Sen Bei" the latest available statistics show that actually there are just about 9,000.

Ridiculous Figures.

The weakness of Mr. Meng's informant for imposing figures crops out once more when he "reveals" that "it is estimated"—no need to mention by whom, we can well guess—that the Mission takes in a cool two million a year on that sand-lot. Perhaps he was only trying to be facetious. He knows as does everyone who is acquainted with climatic conditions in that part of the country that it is one of the poorest in all China and that lean years are by far the more common occurrence.

Time and again as in 1929—a serious famine occurs and claims its victims by the thousands. On such occasions, far from being able to draw on their fabulous gains—mere fable, indeed, the Sanpien missionaries have habitually had recourse to relatives and friends in Europe on behalf of the starving population.

As for the allegation that the Mission exercises "all administrative, political, and judicial powers," that too is a pure myth. It exercises only such powers as every landholder in China is entitled to exercise over his tenants.

and discharges no offices except such as every civilian has a right to discharge. The Mission has never established tax-offices nor has it ever exacted any sort of import or transit taxes. To state otherwise may be very effective in rousing antagonism to the Mission but it is simply not true.

Venerable Bishop.

The Sanpien Mission possesses at this very moment one of the most venerable figures in China, Bishop Hubert Otto, who is deeply loved and revered by those who know him. He came to China way back in 1870. Ever since then, he has not once quitted the people so dear to him. So as to have more means available entitled and even occasional trips to the port cities. He has not seen Peking since he passed through 58 years ago.

The son of a wealthy family, he has insisted nevertheless on living a poor and very simple life always. He expended his entire patrimony, which was considerable, upon both Chinese and Mongols during the various famines. At his instance, his sister and his brother have also sacrificed small fortunes to buy food for the starving. Despite the weight of his years—he is now eighty-four—he keeps on working as actively as ever. He teaches daily in the schools and continues a prolific writer on practical questions, characteristically inscribing his books: "No rights whatever reserved!" This remarkable man typical in many respects of the Catholic missionary will be entitled to be surprised when he learns that the newspapers have been calling his devotion imperialism and regard him as enemy of the very people he has been loving and serving so unselfishly these many years.

The Raiser Of Spectres

"And I, two hundred."

Ten minutes later the sum of 800 francs was pushed forward towards the commercial traveller who had to make up the full amount of the stake.

Driven into his last entrenchment, the young jester had turned slightly pale, but he nevertheless collected the money and put it into his purse.

Everybody left the table eagerly.
The Spaniard begged the innkeeper to let him use one of his rooms;
we were taken to a closet on the ground-floor opening into the garden of the inn and closed by a thin door of fire-wood.

The enchanter showed his mocking antagonist in, left him in the dark and remained outside while the passengers gathered round him.
Sombre flashes left his eyes, his dusky face, with parchment-like skin, assumed an almost diabolical expression. He regarded the little closed door fixedly and muttered some unintelligible words.

A few moments of solemn silence supervened.

"Well then," said the jeering voice of the commercial traveller,
"is it for to-day or to-morrow?"

"What do you see?" inquired the Spaniard.

"Nothing!"

Another few moments of silence ensued. The old man was still stammering sentences and making peculiar gestures.

"And now?" said he.

"I see," said the young man in a slightly different tone, "a white haze... in a corner of the room."

"This haze moves, doesn't it?"

"It's coming towards me... It takes on a human shape... Yes!

yes! I can distinguish the outline of the head!"

"Whom do you wish to see?"

The commercial traveller did not answer right away; at length, his voice reached us—trembling and low.

"My mother!" said he.

"Get ready... look!" commanded the old man.

A prolonged silence followed.

Our hearts were palpitating violently.

All of a sudden, a heart-rending cry rang out from the closet.

"It's she!" said the young man, terror-stricken, "my poor mother!

...She's here in her shroud, her eyes are open, the tears wrested from her in death struggle are still on her cheeks. She's coming...

she holds me tight, she embraces me! Enough, mercy!... Miserable

sorcerer, stop, I can no longer...

Help, help!"

The sound of a body falling heavily on the floor was heard.

The passengers rushed headlong into the closet and lifted up the unfortunate commercial traveller, victim of a severe fit of nervous breakdown. Cold water was poured on his face, vinegar was sent for, his hands were patted.

At last he appeared to come to.

But then a foolish anger seemed to possess him.

"Where is he, that infamous

Spaniard," cried he, "where is he!

I'll strangle him! Ah! the wretch... to torture a fellow-creature in this way!"

The passengers began to look for the cattle dealer, who was nowhere to be seen. Then, the young man, freeing himself from the hands of those who tended him, rushed out in pursuit of the sorcerer and was lost in the profound gloom of the garden...

With him disappeared the 800 francs advanced.

On re-entering the diligence to go on to Girona, the passengers laughed a little on the wrong side of the mouth at the audacious sorcerer's swindle.

"Bah!" concluded one of them.

"We've had a good comedy for our money, and the rogues played their parts admirably."

FARMER RETURNS FROM GRAVE

Suspected Murderers
Liberated.

MISSING SINCE JANUARY

Shelbyville, Tennessee.

"Uncle Billy" Martin, 70 year-old farmer, has returned from the "grave" to the astonishment of his neighbours, and by doing so has caused the liberation of six persons, including his brother, from the charge of murdering him.

He had been missing since January 1, this year, but it was not until about six weeks after he left home, according to Sheriff Tom Gant, because of a "minor family argument," that his disappearance was reported to the authorities.

This was done following the discovery of charred bones in a deserted cabin.

Following an investigation, three negro women signed a statement to the effect that "a negro man carried Uncle Billy's body in his arms" to a hut near the missing man's home.

Felix Martin, the "dead man's" brother, and six negroes were arrested, but one negro was released.
Meanwhile the local river was dragged in an effort to find parts of the body and the Sheriff had the bones viewed by doctors from Nashville, because the bones had not definitely been identified as those of a human being.

After the return of the "dead," which resulted in the immediate release of his brother and the five negroes, the Sheriff said "I guess we can forget about the bones now," explaining that they were so badly charred that doctors had said it would cost $15 and take six weeks to classify them.

"Uncle Billy" said he had merely been wandering through parts of Alabama and Tennessee.—Reuter.

PURGING NEW YORK SLOT MACHINES

Demonstration Shows
"You Cannot Win."

New York.
Mr. F. H. LaGuardia, Mayor of
New York, having twisted the Tammany Tiger's tail at and since his election to office last November, has now embarked on a campaign to save the citizens of the city from themselves in connection with slot machines.

The police have been conducting an intensive search for machines and have succeeded in tracking down most of them. Some, however, have escaped the eagle eye of the police force and these are still being patronised by the public, who are gluttons for punishment.

Now the Mayor has opened an exhibition of the confiscated machines at the Rockefeller Centre.
Here the public are allowed to play to their hearts' content. Slugs are provided free.

The demonstration that "you can't win" is being conducted under the auspices of the New York University. Two machines, "Readem" and "Weep," being used in the demonstration have yielded 17
jackpots on 25,000 slugs.

New Yorkers have not to slow to take advantage of this opportunity to test fate. On the whole the experiment can be counted a success—nobody has lost any money.
On the other hand, winners of the jackpots were somewhat disappointed that the deluge of slugs could not be turned into cold, hard cash or its equivalent in merchandise.—Reuter.

Points Of View.INSISTENCE, HASTE AND CARELESSNESS

Insistence is a kind of selfish egotism which turns an otherwise good motorist into a "thruster," one who takes advantage of every opening to go through the traffic and so save a few minutes on a journey, writes a contributor to the "Autocar." It is not because he is really in a hurry that, by skillful driving and thrusting methods, he threads his way through the gaps which permit his passage with only an inch or so to spare;
he likes doing it, it adds to the zest of driving, and turns a pastime into a sport which is different from all other sports because the people with whom he is competing are unaware of their part in the contest. It is so easy to win a game of strategy if one's opponents are not playing.

This would not matter at all to the world at large but for the fact that the thruster causes a great deal of inconvenience to a large

Tristan Da Cunha Tradition Untrue.

WORD MISINTERPRETED

Johannesburg. Misinterpretation of a word from a dictionary more than a century ago has given rise to a tradition concerning Tristan da Cunha which is untrue and unfair.

The belief that there are no white South Africans, which prevailed in the mind of an English writer of the year 1827, is responsible for the story which is repeated in books of reference, that the original inhabitants of the island were coloured. Only now has the proof been supplied to the contrary.

Mr. Douglas Gane, an English historian, has discovered that the idea originated because somebody in the early eighteenth century wrongly interpreted the expression "South African Creole."

For more than 50 years he has been engaged in following up the origins of the famous settlement on the world's loneliest island and recently found a hoard of information in the United States.

It appears that William Glass, popularly called "Governor Glass," the founder of the colony, had several sons who became whalers on American ships and who ultimately settled and died at New London, Connecticut.

Question Of Colour. Here, too, Mrs. Glass, the widow of the pioneer, ended her days, leaving behind her an accumulation of documents which Mr. Gane has recovered. They include the family bible, genealogical tables and many letters of unique interest.

From these the identity of the original Mrs. Glass has been gathered. She was from the Cape Colony, and her name as a girl was Mary Magdalena Leenders. This is a family still well known in Holland and is purely European.

But a contemporary writer, in referring to her described the wife as of "South African Creole origin." The word Creole is wrongly understood by many people to mean a person of colour. "Creole," according to the best dictionaries, is merely a person born in the French colonies, and has no connotation of colour.

Here it was used with unfortunate results to describe a Cape settler.—Reuter.

CANARY EATS $40 IN NOTES.

School Porter Loses His Hoard.

Prague. A school porter at Most, Bohemia, hid $40 in notes under the sand at the bottom of an old birdcage. He did not want his wife to know that he had saved so much.

A few days later, a hawk offered the wife a comb in exchange for the cage. She accepted.

Now the porter has traced the cage to its new owner—but all the satisfaction he has got is to hear that the canary placed in it has been ill for some days.

It is believed that it has eaten the notes.—Reuter.

BRIDGE NOTES

Lead Through Strength

by Ely Culbertson.

When defending against either a suit or notrump contract, there are many occasions when the defending players charged with the burden of the lead necessarily have to rely almost exclusively upon his own inference as to the choice of a suit to lead.

On such occasions the element of guess-work may be reduced by adhering to the general policy of leading through the strength in Dummy or up to the weakness in Dummy.

To state it another way, when sitting at the right of the Dummy hand, it will generally be found advantageous to lead the suit in which Dummy holds tenace positions, but when sitting at the left of the Dummy it will generally be best, lacking other information, to lead the suit in which Dummy is weakest. This is merely an extension of the theory of leading from the weak hand to the strong.

In leading through broken honour strength in Dummy, there is, of course, no assurance that your partner holds the cards over Dummy's holdings. It is a general rule, however, that a lead through this broken strength is more likely to result advantageously than disadvantageously, and the same holds true of a lead up to marked weakness in Dummy.

For example:

North:—

S.—10 8 6 4 2

H.—6 5 4

D.—7 5

C.—K J 6

West:—

S.—9 5

H.—K 3 2

D.—A K Q 6 4

C.—10 9 8

South:—

S.—A K Q J

H.—A Q 8

D.—9 3

C.—5 4 3 2

East:—

S.—7 3

H.—J 10 9 7

D.—J 10 8 2

C.—A Q 7

South is Declarer. The contract is two spades. West's Opening lead is the diamond King, which wins, and West then continues with the Queen. On the two leads diamonds East plays first the two and then the eight. South plays the three and the nine. It is, of course, apparent to West that in all probability to continue diamonds would permit South to discard a loser in one hand and ruff in the other. Therefore he must find another lead.

To lead trumps does not appear particularly constructive, as the Dummy has five spades and any effort to exhaust the trump suit must fail. The heart suit is notably weak in Dummy, and hence, in all probability, is the backbone of Declarer's strength, but even if it is not, no advantage could come from leading hearts, and possibly a trick might be lost by this course.

There remains, then, the club suit, which is in tenace position in the Dummy hand, and in which West holds a sequence of the Ten, nine and eight. His correct lead, therefore, is now the Ten of clubs.

NEVER ATTENDED CHURCH

Boy Rejected As Police Witness.

NO KNOWLEDGE OF OATH

Brisbane, Queensland.

A boy, aged nine years, who was called to give evidence in the Texas Police Court, Queensland, was rejected as a witness by the Police Magistrate, after having been questioned as to his knowledge of the nature of an oath.

Replies given by the child indicated that he had never been to church or Sunday School, and knew nothing about God. He did not know the Bible, and could not distinguish between a lie and the truth.

The Magistrate remarked that it was a very sad state of affairs. Had it occurred in the far west, it might have been understood, but this was a closely settled area, where children had the advantage of religious instruction, even in State School.—Reuter.

RECRUITS DODGE CONSCRIPTION.

"False Epilepsy" New Ruse In Spain.

Madrid.

Recruits to Spain's conscript Army are suffering from an epidemic of "false epilepsy"—according to reports made by the Army doctors.

The "disease" takes the form of the potential recruit's lying on the ground, rigid and motionless.

But the sceptical medical officers have found a "cure" for such cases. They apply a sponge to the recruit's face—and he leaps wildly to his feet. For the sponge is soaked with ammonia.

Other attempts on the parts of village youths to avoid military service include the staining of their skins yellow so that they appear to suffer from "jaundice."

Others are so "deaf" that they fail to hear the loudest sounds. They are sometimes found out by the doctors' new trick of dropping a coin on the floor. This, it is said, often catches the "skirmishers" unawares.—Reuter.

The club Knave is finessed in Dummy and East wins with the Queen.

Now if East returns the club at once, South will make his contract, but he applies the second principle Dummy's weakness. Inasmuch as he holds a sequence in hearts, he leads the heart Knave. The Declarer must finesse the Queen, and West, winning with the King, again leads the club. The play of North is immaterial, but I will assume that the King is the card chosen. East wins with the Ace and returns not the club but the heart Ten, in order to establish a second trick in hearts. The heart return is won by the Declarer, but he must eventually lose another heart and another club.

You will note that if East returns a club before returning the second round of hearts, the Declarer will save a trick, as the thirteenth club in his hand will permit his discard of a losing heart in Dummy.

SYNDICATE OF FIVE WIN $189,000

NOVICE RIDER'S FIRST WIN DETERMINES LOTTERY

OVER 1,000 WITNESS DRAW

SEETHING WITH EXCITEMENT, MORE THAN 1,000 CHINESE GATHERED IN THE MAIN HALL OF THE TUNG WAH HOSPITAL, YESTERDAY AFTERNOON, TO WITNESS THE DRAWING OF HONG KONG'S FIRST HOSPITAL SWEEPSTAKE, CARRYING A FIRST PRIZE OF $189,000.

The winning ticket, No. 21221, drawn on Fudge, the winner of the Shatin Handicap at yesterday's race meeting, is held by a syndicate of five middle-class Chinese, resident in Hong Kong.

The race on which the sweep was drawn provided many thrills for race spectators, two novice jockeys being thrown, including Mr. Barrow, who was up with the leaders on Chivalrous when coming into the home straight. The winning jockey was Mr. C. M. Taylor, who thus re-recorded his first win in the Colony.

The intense interest centred on the sweep, the profits of which go to the Tung Wah Hospital building expansion scheme, was evidenced by the flood of telephone enquiries which flooded the Sunday Herald office yesterday afternoon and evening.

THE IDENTITY OF THE HOLDER OF THE SECOND WINNING TICKET, WHICH IS VALUED AT APPROXIMATELY $25,000, COULD NOT BE ASCERTAINED LAST NIGHT, BUT IT WAS LEARNED THAT THE TICKET WAS SOLD FROM A BOOK HELD BY THE MANAGER OF THE WING ON COMPANY, MR. L. GOKKCHIN.

The syndicate of five who hold Ticket No. 21221, which drew Fudge, the winner, are Messrs. Wong Lau-chuen, Chiu Yue, Cho Chai-yuen, Lee Siu-kee and Chan Chi-wai. The owners are stated to be men of moderate means and living in Hong Kong.

The Main Hall of the new Tung Wah Hospital building was a scene of busy activity throughout the whole of yesterday afternoon when the drawing of the Tung Wah Hospital Sweep on the 9th race of yesterday's Race meeting was carried out.

With faces keen with anxiety, over a thousand Chinese filled the hall and followed intently as the numbers were announced. The numbers for the 24 ponies in the race were first decided, and then followed the monotonous procedure of drawing 100 numbers for the consolation prizes.

The drawing was carried out under the surveillance of the Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau and Mr. Chan Lim Pak. Among the large gathering of notable Chinese present were Messrs. Lam Yuk-tong, Hang Yuk-ming, Sun Ping-hey, Kan Yat-soi, Mok Chan-sam, Lam Cheuk-ling, Yue Choi, Chin Kit-tang, Lau Wal-chun, Kwan Wan-pak, Peter Sin, Lam Chik-ho, Lam Chuen-wan, Chan Ping-ngau, Leo Heung-kuk, Lau Ping-yue, Kwok Lim-pak, Kung Tat-wing and Wong Pak-sing.

The following were the results of the draw.

"SUNDAY HERALD" FLASHES RESULT TO HOSPITAL.

Winners Known Before Draw Concludes.

Working in conjunction with the racing correspondent of the Sunday Herald who phoned through the result of the Shatin Handicap as the ponies passed the winning post, the Sunday Herald representative at the drawing was able to inform the gathering at the Tung Wah Hospital of the winning ticket numbers before the drawing of the consolation prizes had concluded.

$189,049.90. The ticket was sold by Mr. Leung Luen-sik, of Yau Hing Loong, Bonham Strand West.

Mr. Leung informed the Sunday Herald, yesterday that the ticket was sold by another party to a syndicate of five Chinese living in Hong Kong.

The second prize, one of $51,669.07, was won by ticket No. 02487, which drew King's Parade. This ticket was sold by Mr. Lam Kwok Chuen, of Messrs. Wing On Company.

Ticket No. 36383 drew Burgo-master, which took third place, receiving $25,779.53. This ticket was sold by Mr. Wong Chuen Hin, of 144 Des Voeux Road Central, second floor.

$402,019.98 NET RECEIPTS

The net receipts of the sweep totalled $402,019.98, of which $20,101.00 will be paid for stamp-duty and $38,191.90 will go to the Tung Wah Hospital Fund.

The sum of $25,799.53 was divided amongst the 20 starters, while $11,359.07 was divided between the four non-starters.

Emperor's Bride

This shy young lady, so obviously wary of the camera, is Miss Yuen Hu-hao, daughter of a wealthy Cochin-Chinese family, who recently became the bride of Emperor Dadi, of Annam. A special dispensation was obtained from the Vatican to permit Miss Yuen, a Roman Catholic, to marry the potentate.

DEVELOPMENT IN KWANGTUNG.

New Sugar Refineries Planned.

SCHEME TO AID FARMERS.

Canton, Yesterday. In an interview with pressmen, yesterday, Lieutenant General Chen Chang-fu, South District Pacification Commissioner, who arrived here on May 17, stated:—

"Since the clearing up of remnant bandits in the South District, the Pacification Commission has been engaged in drawing schemes for economic development of farming villages. The first step, which has been taken, is to foster farmers' education.

"In view of supply over demand of sugar canes in that district, the government is now contemplating the establishment of sugar refineries there. These refineries, it is expected, will come into existence very shortly.

"With a view to developing farming villages, General Chen Chang-fu has ordered the establishment of a rehabilitation territory in the centre of Shu-man County. Reclamation work in that territory has been carried out."—Central Press.

Canton, Yesterday. In accordance with the plan for promoting education among the masses, which is included in the three-year plan, the Provincial Department of Education has sent an order to various county higher primary schools in Kwangtung to the effect that each of them must establish a mass education school within this year.

It is learned that funds for maintenance will be raised by the primary schools themselves or appropriated by county governments. —Central Press.

GERMAN TRANSFER MORATORIUM.

Adjournment Follows Fresh Difficulties.

DISSENSION AMONG DELEGATES

Berlin, Yesterday. The international conference between the delegates of Germany's medium and long term creditors and the Reichsbank has been adjourned until Tuesday.

It is believed that this move is not only due to technical difficulties, but also to differences of opinion among the foreign delegates themselves.

The journal, Weskreitung, declares that nothing less than a moratorium for a period of 18 months to two years, which includes the Dawes, Young and other privileged loans, will satisfy Germany.—Reuter.

THREAT TO JAPANESE CABINET.

Japanese police officers, at 5.45 a.m. yesterday called at the residence of Mr. Kuroda, and escorted him to the District Procurators office.

The Tokyo Journal, Asahi, states that a warrant will be issued and that Mr. Kuroda will be detained in Ichigaya prison for examination in connection with alleged irregularities in the affairs of the Bank of Taiwan.
